MAY ELECT M. E. SUPERINTENDENTS

Conference Refers Proposal To Its Judiciary Committee; Bishops Now Name Them.

ORDINATION OF WOMEN

Strongly Opposed and Unfavorable Report Is Expected Wednesday.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Springfield, Mass., May 6.—Advocacy of a change in the states of ordination to elective was considered by the Methodist general conference in session here today. The matter was referred by vote to the judiciary committee, of which Judge Henry W. Rogers is chairman. The district superintendents are now appointed by the bishops. Considerable adverse sentiment concerning ordination of women to the Methodist Episcopal ministry was in evidence today. The question will be debated tomorrow, when the report of the committee will be delivered. The Rev. M. M. Gray of Scranton, Pa., is chairman of the committee. Many of the delegates believe an adverse report will be reported.

Bobbed Haired Bandit And Her Husband Are Sentenced

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, May 6.—Cecilia Cooney, Brooklyn's notorious bobbed haired bandit and her husband, Edward, today were sentenced to serve from 10 to 20 years in prison for robbery. It was the maximum sentence. Both took their sentences coolly. Just before she was taken into court Cecilia pencilled a note which she sent in to Judge Martin by an attendant. It read: "To those girls who think they would like to see their names in the papers as mine has been, or think they would like to do what I have done, let me say: Don't try to do it. You don't know what you suffer. While I smiled my heart was breaking in me. "Cecilia." Before sentencing the pair Judge Martin talked to them in his chamber. They confessed participation in 10 hold ups. The girl promised "to go straight" when she got out of prison. Cooney talked but said he would "go straight" too. They were in the court room less than three minutes and then were taken back to the Raymond street jail to await final arrangements to take them to prison.

Bonus Blanks Received Here

The bonus blanks have been received in Kingston by Kingston Post of the American Legion, but will not be given out until 10 o'clock Wednesday morning when they may be obtained by Eugene Carey at his office, No. 53 John street, or of Thomas Coughlin at his office, 293 Wall street. In the evening the blanks may be obtained at the state armory.

Robert Martin New Manager

Of Greatly Improved Forsyth and Davis Service Station on Green Street and Show Rooms on Main Street.

Forsyth & Davis Motor Company, Inc., have nearly completed an addition to their service station at 113 Green street, which more than doubles their floor space.

Their repair shop in the lower portion of their building, is now the lightest service station along the Hudson river. Large steel windows with wire glass make it a daylight shop in the true sense of the word.

They have added new machines, a complete new electrical equipment, an entire new heating plant, and a small paint department.

They have added to their mechanical force, and this larger outfit required a manager who was competent to oversee and direct it.

Robert Martin, who for many years had charge of the garage of the late S. D. Coykendall, and was responsible for the mechanical condition of the high grade cars always used by him, has accepted the position of sales and service manager.

Mr. Martin has had a long experience, both in service and sales work, and brings to his new position, talent of the very highest order in garage management.

He will have supervision over both the service station at 113 Green street and the show rooms at 32 Main street.

The patrons of Forsyth & Davis Motor Company, Inc. are assured of courteous attention, and high grade service, and both Forsyth & Davis Motor Company, Inc., and Mr. Martin, are to be congratulated upon their new arrangement.

Forsyth & Davis Motor Company, Inc., have the agency for the Pierce Arrow, Oakland and Gray automobiles; an exceptionally strong line of cars, and with their improved service and their accessory business, are in a position to render unsurpassed service to their many patrons.

Reichstag Is Much Divided

Coalition That Will Attempt to Put Through Dawes Plan Will Meet Strong Opposition From Nationalists.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Berlin, May 6.—Although the new coalition government resulting from the general election will have a majority in the Reichstag, fears were expressed today that a counter coalition may make it extremely difficult to pass the laws necessary to put the Dawes reparation plan into effect.

The government will require a two thirds majority in the Reichstag to change the constitution. Foreign office officials said the policy of the present government, which has already accepted the Dawes plan, will be continued.

President Ebert, a Socialist, is holding conferences with party leaders regarding the formation of a new cabinet.

The crucial question now is whether the struggling results give the Nationalists one or two more seats than the Socialists in which case President Ebert would be morally constrained to charge the Nationalists with the task of forming a new cabinet.

With some returns still missing, official tabulation to date gives the Social Democrats and the German Nationalists 99 seats each. Leaders of the Nationalists unofficially claim 105 seats. Communists will have from 60 to 65 seats. Returns from ten constituencies are missing.

Pioneers Will Banquet May 26

The first annual banquet and election of officers of the Pioneer Veterans of F-51, will be held at Golden Rule Inn on Monday evening, May 26. Any one who served at any time with Company F, 51st Pioneer Infantry, is eligible for membership in the organization and should get in touch with Secretary Eugene Cornwell of No. 156 Fair street. The committee in charge of the annual banquet is making every effort to have the affair a noteworthy one.

An Extra Panel Of Trial Jurors

The following extra panel of trial jurors were drawn Monday afternoon by order of Justice Rosch to attend the session of supreme court:

Edward C. Clark, Marlborough. Irving W. Clark, Marlborough. Grover Christiana, Olive Bridge. Isaac C. Conklin, Clintonville. Lester Coons, Ellenville. Otis Davis, Lucas avenue, city. P. H. No Trace of Major Martin

By Telegram to The Freeman. Cordova, Alaska, May 6.—As another day passed without trace of Major Frederick L. Martin, and Sergeant Alva Harvey, crew of the ill fated plane Seattle of the United States army round the world flight, high hopes entertained during the first days of the search that they would be found alive began to dwindle. However, Lieut. Missell, of the army air service and Major Martin's three flying companions now at Atka Island, still expressed belief that the missing fliers are not only alive but will be found.

Search is now centering on the northern or Bering Sea side of the Aleutian Peninsula. All clues that have come to the searchers have indicated that shortly after leaving Chignik last Wednesday, Major Martin headed north by westward—a course which would have carried him over Chignik Lake and to the Bering Sea.

The Bering Sea search will begin in earnest with the arrival on that side of the coast guard cutter Albatross after refueling at Dutch Harbor.

An Entertainment. An entertainment will be given on Wednesday evening, May 7, at Bathing Mission chapel, corner of North Front street and Washington avenue. Those who are to take part are Mrs. Alfred Van Buren in readings; Miss Roberta Avery in piano selections; Wesley Thayer, cartoonist. All the friends of Bathing Mission are invited. No admission will be charged but a free will offering will be taken. A fine program has been arranged.

Gifts at People's Store. L. C. Bernhard, the new manager of The People's store, on Wall street, will give away a lady's waist or a straw hat for men with every purchase of $20 or over at the spring sale which will open Saturday, May 10.

MINISTERS LOATH TO TAKE STAND ON EVOLUTION

The Rev. Mr. Moot Believes "Days" of Genesis Were Very Long and Evolution Produced Monkey With Man-Like Body.

THEN GOD ENDOWED IT WITH A SOUL

Science Proves Bible Inspired and Confirms Its Account of Creation.

The Rev. F. W. Moot, pastor of the Ponckhockie Congregational Church, read the following paper before the Kingston Ministerial Association Monday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A.:

In the study of the origin of man, two principal theories present themselves. The one might be called the Biblical or instantaneous, the other the scientific or evolutionary theory.

The former looks upon the first two chapters of Genesis with a strictly literal interpretation—that the six days of creation were days of twenty-four hours each, that all the grass and trees and birds and beasts were created within this brief period, and that on the last of these six days, God moulded from the dust of the earth a form like the present body of the human race and breathed into this clay "the breath of life and man became a living soul."

The scientific or evolutionary theory looks upon the "six days" of creation as very long periods of time, possibly millions of years each; and that all forms of life, both vegetable and animal, were slowly developing through these long epochs or ages. The first manifestations of life are found in the simplest forms of vegetation and moving things in the water. Later appeared the creature that could crawl out of water and live on land or in water. Then the animal has lived whole, on land and walked on four feet; later a higher form that could walk on its hind legs, and eventually those which walked erect on two feet, using its front legs as arms and its front feet as hands. In general terms, the highest type of the latter is known as the monkey, the gibbon, the gorilla or the chimpanzee. The skeleton of the latter bears such a striking resemblance to the skeleton of man that the average individual, if he found the skeleton of a chimpanzee, would declare it was that of a human being. The arm bones are a little longer and the skull a little more flat, but otherwise it has the same number of bones and the same forms as those of man. Science, therefore, concludes that the body of man is but one step in advance in the process of evolution—the body of the first man being none other than the body of a chimpanzee or some member of that family.

Thus far I agree with science. But science is cold. It deals with the material and has nothing to do with the spiritual, and that is the point at which I part with my scientific friends. To state the view as simply and briefly as possible, permit me to say I do believe that when God proposed to bring man into being, he took a male and female of this highest type of animal and breathed in them a soul and they became the parents of the human race, distinguished ever afterward from the monkey family by virtue of the added soul. The chimpanzee nor any of his cousins never just "grew" into a man. There was a point where the divine creator used what he had brought forth to a high degree to put into it an immortality, and this product became a new species—man. However foolish men may act, he never can be a real monkey; and however smart the monkey may appear, he can never become a human being.

But now you ask me "Did God make man from dust? Yes. He made every form of life from dust or the ground of the earth, and every living thing of today is but the dust of the earth transformed into some specific form. In the final analysis the grass, the tree, the flower or the fruit is nothing, but the substance of the ground built up into another form. The little rootless gather the material substance out of the earth and send it up to be built into a new form. The sunlight and air may contribute to life, but not to substance. Therefore, the bread we eat is dust. In the latter, there is an additional step—the fowl or beast ate the grass or grain and transformed it into flesh. There is no greater truth of science or the Bible than the statement that man was made from dust.

But how does this affect the first two chapters of Genesis? When rightly interpreted, it confirms the biblical account of the material origin of man, and strengthens my faith in the divine inspiration of the Bible. How could man, in the ignorance of the age in which Genesis was written, have arrived at so great and mysterious a truth without divine direction? Permit me to say I believe in the inspiration of the Bible from the first word of Genesis to the last verse of Revelation, but there is a vast difference between inspiration and interpretation. The former cannot be altered, the latter is always subject to change; for it is only the opinion of

Hudson Maxim Has Strong Ideas On The Presidency

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, May 6.—Hudson Maxim, famous inventor, naively admits he would make an excellent president, but should he not be "called" and there is that possibility—he has an idea or two how the people should select their president.

In reply to a recent poll sent to prominent Americans all over the country asking them their views on who would make the best president of the United States, Maxim sent this reply.

"If I would accept, I should unquestionably make the best president that could be secured up in the country, for the reason that I should do as Caesar did during the time he had before he was killed for doing it.

"I should try to lift the yoke of federal prohibition from the necks of the American people and let them stand up again, erect as self respecting, law abiding men and women.

School Concert Here Wednesday

The third annual concert of the grade schools of the city will be held Wednesday evening at the high school auditorium instead of Thursday evening. Seven hundred of the grade pupils will take part in the concert Wednesday evening.

Truck and Ford Came Together

About 7:15 o'clock this morning a big Mack truck driven by E. J. Cochran of 151 Pine street and a Ford sedan owned and driven by Andrew Mathela collided at Abel and Wurts streets at entrance to Rondout Creek Bridge. The Mack truck, according to the police report, struck the Ford sedan in the side and pushed it over on the curb on the left side of the bridge entrance breaking both rear wheels and smashing in the left side of the body. The truck was not damaged. At the time the truck was on the way down the Wurts street hill and the sedan proceeding along Abel street.

man and is subject to his degree of knowledge. The church in the past two thousand years has made many changes in its interpretation of scripture; it will make many more as time goes on.

Another question, in the known history of God's acts, has he ever done anything like the evolutionary theory of the origin of man? Yes. When He determined to send His son into the world, He might have sent him in the glory He had in heaven, or He might have clothed him in the body of an angel or He might have created for him a new body; but He did none of these. He took the body of man—the highest species that time—and put into it the divine, and that became the God-man. We think nothing less of the Christ because He lived in a human body, and yet the divine exceeded the human far more than the human exceeded the chimpanzee.

One of the repelling features of the evolutionary theory is that some people look into the face of a modern white man and then turn their own white face to a mirror and refuse to believe there is any physical relation or resemblance. They should remember that it is a long, long trail back to the time of the first man. I have seen the good Polish mother with her plain clothing and her shawl over her head, walk the streets of our city and at her side is her daughter less than twenty years old, but dressed in the latest styles of America. What a contrast that twenty years has made. What one generation has accomplished. At that rate after 20,000 or 200,000 years, since the first chimpanzee-man, some people ought to be ashamed that they have not gotten further away from the monkey face than they have.

Then, too, what relation have these things to the minister's preaching, or the stand he takes with regard to science and interpretation. Some ministers say, "I am not interested in these things," others, "It doesn't matter what I believe, let the people cling to their old ideas." But it does make a difference. There is not a high school or college or university in the country that does not teach the evolutionary theory as the origin of species. Our young men and women come out of these institutions fully convinced of these newer ideas. Fully per cent return to the churches. Why? One reason is that they doubt the minister's authority, feeling that if he does not know the theory of evolution, how can he understand the theories of creation, the host and mouth disease situation would tend in the rural communities to cut down the vote.

Y. M. H. A. Athletic Assn. There will be a meeting of the Y. M. H. A. Athletic Association this evening at the Y. M. H. A. club rooms on Spring street. All members are urged to attend as arrangements will be made for the forthcoming dance at the Clermont Hall Thursday evening, May 22, 1924.

"If I were not chosen, the next best man should be secured after the manner in which the Germans used to get their mayors before the war for governing their large cities. "I should have delegates appointed by the principal engineering societies of the country, as the navy consulting board was appointed and also by the principal educational and non-sectarian institutions and from the principal legal and business organizations of the country. "I should let these delegates advertise for applicants for the presidency. I would subject them to a competitive examination as to their qualifications for the office; and then I should make the one who should stand the highest president, and the one who stands the next highest vice-president. "I should choose the cabinet officers from those next highest in the list, according to their special qualifications for the respective offices. "This expedient would lift the presidency out of politics and give us a clean, practical and efficient administration."

Chief interest centered in the sixth district, where Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, Republican, was running for re-election. He was one of the congressmen who figured in the recent "scandal whispering" in Washington and was investigated by a select committee of the house.

Indications today were that Zihlman had won an impressive victory over two opponents.

Teachers' Pay Bill Is Signed

Governor Smith has signed the act to amend the education law, prohibiting discrimination in the employment of public teachers based on sex.

This bill seeks to remove discriminations in salary schedules of teachers in the public schools based on sex.

This has been the law in the City of New York since as far back as 1911. I am unable to understand why a woman performing exactly the same duties as a man should receive less compensation for her services.

The local board of education has not received notice of the signing of the bill, aside from what they read in the morning newspapers, and are not acquainted with the provisions of the bill. It is understood, however, that it applies only to high school teachers.

The salary schedule at the Kingston High School for men is a minimum salary of $1,400 and a maximum of $2,200, which is attained by adding $100 each year for a period of eight years. The minimum for the women teachers is $1,200 with a maximum of $2,000, which is attained by adding $100 each year for eight years.

It will be seen by this that the difference in the salaries paid the men and women teachers is $200. At the present time practically all of the teachers, both men and women, at the high school are receiving much more than the minimum salary.

As soon as the education board receives the bill they will meet to consider its provisions.

Primary Day In California

By Telegram to The Freeman. San Francisco, May 6.—One of the most bitterly contested presidential primary elections in the history of California was being decided by the voters today.

On the Republican ticket the battle was between delegates favorable to Senator Hiram Johnson for president and those pledged to support President Coolidge at the Cleveland convention.

In the Democratic primaries an unopposed delegation was battling the regular ticket pledged to support William Gibbs McAdoo in the New York convention.

Registration figures indicate a great interest in the primary and a record vote was predicted, although many observers believed the host and mouth disease situation would tend in the rural communities to cut down the vote.

Y. M. H. A. Athletic Assn. There will be a meeting of the Y. M. H. A. Athletic Association this evening at the Y. M. H. A. club rooms on Spring street. All members are urged to attend as arrangements will be made for the forthcoming dance at the Clermont Hall Thursday evening, May 22, 1924.

MERCHANTS' ASSN. HOLDS MEETING

New Members Received and All are Optimistic as to Success of Organization.

DRESS UP WEEK SUCCESS

Candidate For Secretary Called Here for Inspection.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Kingston Merchants' Association was held at the Advance Restaurant Monday evening following a dinner and many topics of interest to retail merchants, and plans for the betterment of Kingston, were discussed. Sam Bernstein, Jr., chairman of the board of directors, presided and the principal speaker of the evening was Mr. Johnson, who presented the case for the new hotel, with special reference to the value a new hotel would have for the retail merchant.

Out of many applications for the position of paid secretary of the association, one was selected and the directors instructed to bring the applicant to Kingston in order that he may meet the members at a dinner.

The recent spring opening was reported to have been a decided success, due to the hard work of the association in inducing a general cooperation by merchants. Not the least part of the benefit is that some of the very small stores that were induced to wash their windows and make a display, have kept it up and seem to have formed a lasting habit.

Among those who discussed business problems and the future of the association were William Dugan, Everett Vignea, Kenneth Everett, Vincent A. Gorman, A. D. Rose, Sam Bernstein, Jr., and Mr. Strawgate, who has recently established a store on North Front street. Mr. Strawgate wanted to know what was going about and if new members were wanted, and before Chairman Bernstein had finished telling the purposes of the organization had signed up and set an example that was followed by several others.

There were many new faces at the meeting, which was attended by 27 members and prospective members, all enthusiastic and determined to make the organization a success.

Horace Smith Is Sent to Pen

Negro Raised a Disturbance at Home of Sam Daniels at Steep Rocks Monday and Threatened Other Negroes With a Gun—Miller Pays a $5 Fine.

Horace Smith, a negro, was sentenced to 180 days in the Albany Penitentiary by Judge Harry E. Schrick in police court this morning when Horace pleaded guilty to public intoxication.

About 8 o'clock Monday evening police headquarters received a telephone call from the home of Sam Daniels, a negro, residing at Steep Rocks, stating that there was a negro there with a gun who was threatening to shoot up the house.

Officers Entrott and Roedel were hurried to the house and placed Horace under arrest on a charge of public intoxication. They searched Horace but could find no gun on him.

Arthur King, another negro, claimed that Smith had threatened him with the gun and also Elsie Johnson, who was with him. This morning King, Elsie and two other negroes all testified that Smith had a gun, but had gotten rid of it before the police arrived.

As Smith had been in trouble before Judge Schrick decided to send him to the pen. On October 18 of last year Smith was arrested on the complaint of Sam Feldman, a local taxi driver, who said that Smith had assaulted him while he was conveying Smith and a negro in his taxi. At that time Smith was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

Henry Miller, a negro, was arrested by Officer Robert Healey Monday night. He was found drunk on Murray street. He paid a $5 fine.

"MAILED FIST" BEST GOVERNMENT SAYS MUSSOLINI

By Telegram to The Freeman. Palermo, Italy, May 6.—The "mailed fist" form of government was extolled here today by Premier Benito Mussolini.

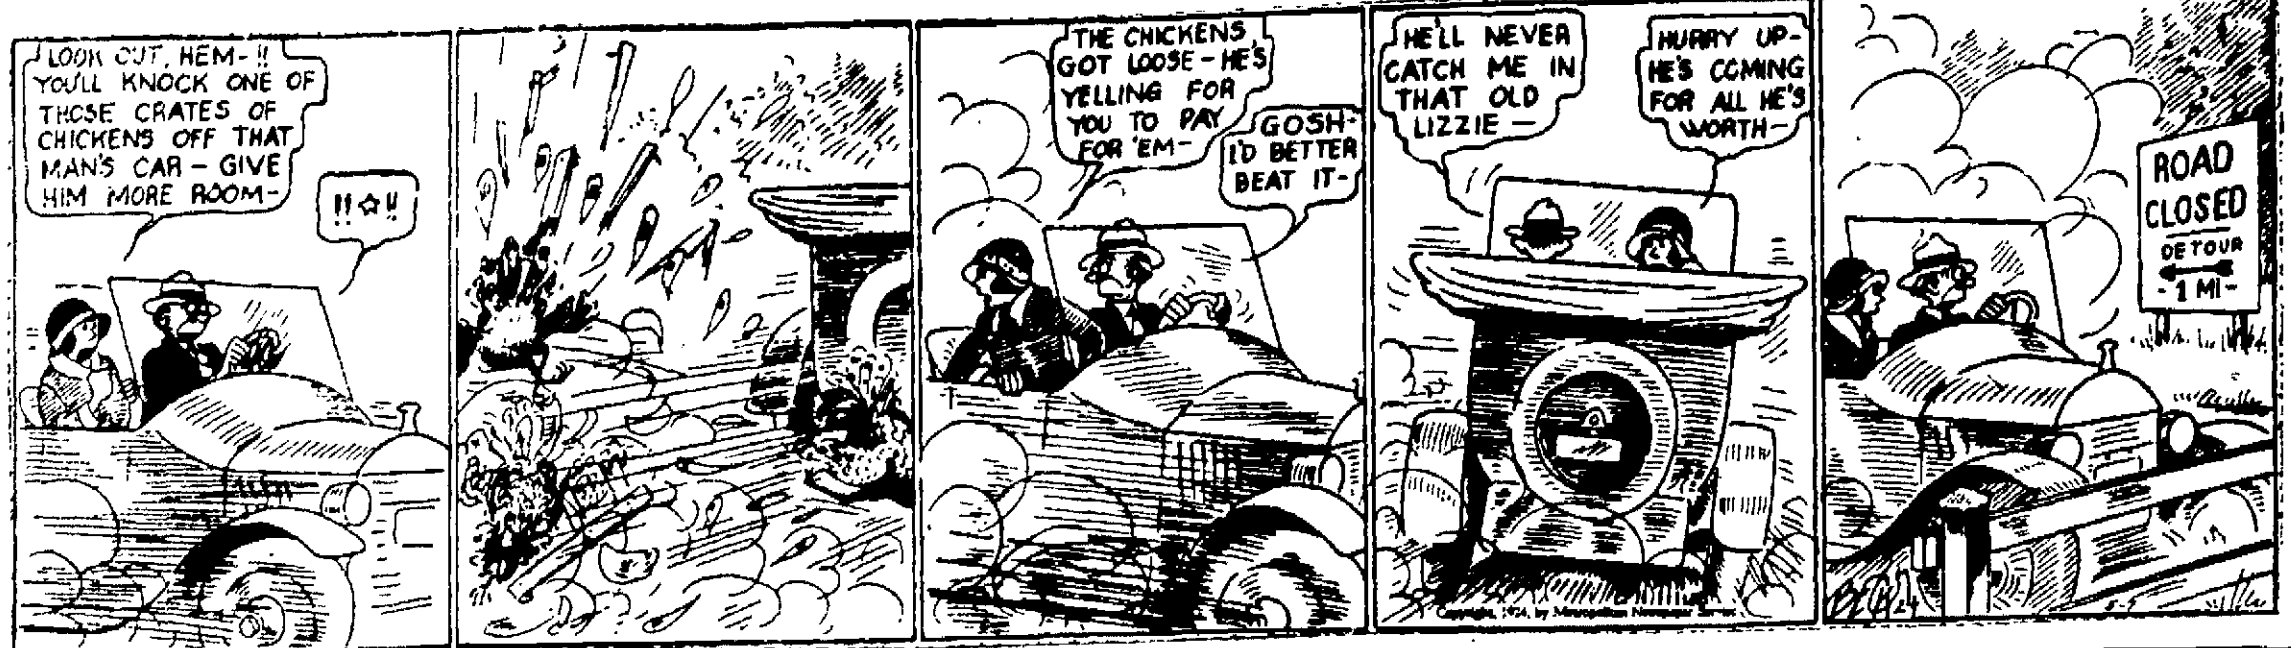

"When liberty is not safeguarded by good order it degenerates into license and chaos," declared the premier in a speech. "You cannot lead nations without the mailed fist and an iron will in governing."

"In this manner, however, I am not prevented from having sympathy and friendship toward those people who work and who suffer."

"Italy has been divided for centuries into divisions of tyranny. But she has now returned to life and she has the will to break all obstacles that hold her back."

New Helicopter Record. By Telegram to The Freeman. Paris, May 6. M. Ochmichen, a French engineer, established a new helicopter record today flying six kilometers in 7 minutes and 40 seconds in a closed triangular space.

GAS BUGGIES—Some Are Born Honest—Others Acquire It, Etc.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

KING LION'S SECRET

Billie Brownie, who loved to go about and call on the Zoo animals and the barnyard animals and the birds was calling this day on King Lion.

He was always fond of the Lions and their great voices somehow always cheered him!

King Lion seemed very glad to see Billie Brownie and was ready to talk to him.

"I'm going to tell about my visit today to all the other Brownies and Fairies and Elves and Gnomes and the rest of my friends and relatives when I get home tonight," said Billie Brownie.

"Yes, there is going to be a banquet tonight in Brownland and after the banquet we're going to tell stories and I've promised to tell the story of my visit to you."

"Ah," said King Lion, "then I will give you a splendid story to take back with you. I will tell you all about myself and I will tell you some of my thoughts."

"Good," said Billie Brownie. "Now it's all very well," continued King Lion, "for some to say that Friend Tiger is a more remarkable wild beast than I am."

"They say that he is so much cleverer, for when he is free he does not take the chances that I will."

"He is stealthy and quiet and sleek and smart. And he goes about his work of hunting and of marketing without making any noise."

"Well, that's all very true and it's all very sensible."

"Yes, people are impressed by our great faces and our great bodies and our great roars—just one apiece we all have, you understand."

"Mostly people are impressed by our great roaring voices."

"They are that," agreed Billie Brownie.

"They listen to us when they come to the zoo," King Lion went on, "and they thank their lucky stars they are separated from us by bars—though it's unlikely we'd be interested in them so they needn't flatter themselves."

"I suppose they wouldn't want to take any chances that we might be interested!"

"That's the idea," nodded Billie Brownie.

"But it's the way we can roar," King Lion continued, "that makes us called the King of Beasts."

"We have a kindly, regal, mighty sound. When it is night in the zoo we roar and call to each other as we would if we were free and were all going a-hunting.

"We roar over our food as we would over our prey."

"We lick the great bones we are given and try to imagine it is something we have caught."

"And if it is going to storm we roar, too—a custom of old days to warn the pack of what is approaching. We keep many of the same ways here, you see!"

"Our manes do not grow to full size until we are five years of age. A five-year-old boy isn't half grown up, not nearly half! But King Lion is a king at five years of age—a full-grown, splendid lion. That shows what lions can do."

"But whether we are as fierce as Mr. Rhinoceros, who is a dangerous animal, or as stealthy and clever as Mr. Tiger, we are called the royal family."

"It is all because of the roar. Listen to the Lion's secret! You have got to blow your own trumpet a bit in this life. No one else is going to do it for you! Am I not a proof of what I say?"

"You are indeed," said Billie Brownie, "and when I think of what you have just said I do realize that there is much to be said about blowing one's own trumpet if you're an example of the success of it."

"For your roar is a terrible thing and it makes you seem a mighty powerful beast, more powerful than any other."

"Ah, yes," said King Lion, "I have told you the secret, the great secret of the Lion family."

"And you may tell it to your Brownie friends and relatives and I'm hoping they will like hearing it. Also you may tell anyone else you want."

"It will be a secret no longer, it is true. But I do not care. For when people hear us roar they will forget about secrets and everything else and think only of our power and of our great, magnificent, fearful voices!"

"True," agreed Billie Brownie, "and now I must be off. I thank you kindly for your story."

CHOICE DISHES

Those who are fond of peanut butter will like to try the following:

Rice and Peanut Casserole.—Add one-half cupful of rice uncooked to three cupfuls of cold water and bring quickly to a boil.

Roll one minute then drain and dash cold water over it in a colander; add one teaspoonful of salt and two cupfuls of boiling water and cook until tender. To one cupful of peanut butter add one beaten egg and one-half cupful of milk. Put all together in a baking dish well-buttered.

Sprinkle with one-half cupful of cracker crumbs which have been well buttered. Bake until the crumbs are brown.

Apple Pudding.—Peel three large, good-flavored apples and cut into small pieces. Lay on a greased plate.

Sprinkle with a little from a cupful of sugar. Cream one tablespoonful of butter with the rest of the ingredients.

well-beaten egg, one-half milk and one and one-quarter cupful of flour sifted with one teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat the pour over the apples and the brown. Serve with sugar and cream.

Tongue Slices.—Beat the yolk of an egg, add one-half teaspoonful of curry powder and two tablespoonfuls of French mustard. Add a few drops of tabasco sauce gradually, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, two tablespoonfuls of olive oil and the juice of half a lemon. Into this dip the slices of boiled tongue, and when well covered, roll the slices in sifted bread crumbs taken from the center of the loaf. Arrange in a well-oiled broiler until the crumbs are brown. Serve around a mound of hot string beans well buttered and seasoned.

Carrot, Celery and Onion Salad.—Put three tender young carrots if of good size—more if small—through a meat grinder, add a half cupful or more of chopped celery and one small onion put through the grinder or scraped. Mix well and serve on the heart leaves of lettuce with the above mayonnaise dressing.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 6, 1924.

It begins to look as if rebellion is the order of the day. For one item, here's Dr. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins University making bold to assure the National Academy of Science that "steady drinkers have a better expectation of life at all ages from 10 on to the end of the life span than do total abstainers."

The Oregon law compelling all children between 9 and 16 to attend the public schools just declared unconstitutional, is pointedly described by the Houston Post as "Prussian to the core, aiming at nothing short of mass tyranny over the individual and the subjection of his conscience, his religious conviction, to the state," thus tending to "set up a precedent which might justify the wildest invasion of constitutional rights."

INDUSTRIALISM'S HERITAGE.

As yet we hardly realize the vast change that has been wrought by the development of modern industrialism, a change not only dictating the employment but affecting the character of capacity of great masses of men. Two years ago the British government made arrangements to employ 15,000,000 annually to assist British emigrants to settle in Australia, New Zealand and Canada, these dominions at the same time making provision for the reception of the new settlers. It was confidently expected that 50,000 assisted emigrants would go to Australia annually, 17,000 to Canada and 10,000 to New Zealand. But up to last October only 23,479 of the assisted had left for Australia, 4,593 to New Zealand and 3,551 to Canada, in spite of the fact that Great Britain's unemployed amounted to nearly two million, and contrary to the precedent of the heavy emigration from Great Britain after the Napoleonic wars a hundred years ago.

In explanation it is suggested that Great Britain has become so highly industrialized that her present population no longer supplies the old adventurous type of settler stock. "The yeoman, the farmer and the farm laborer of initiative have almost disappeared; and the mill hand and the factory operative who have taken their place know instinctively that they are unfitted to wrestle with frontier life." Has not a similar change been going on in America in consequence of the development and ever-extending influence of industrialism? Surely something of the sort is indicated in the news that our farmers are moving to town at the rate of more than a million annually and by the Department of Agriculture showing that "Nearly a quarter of the farms in the United States have been abandoned in the last three years."

THE SMITH BOOM.

Those Democratic managers who at the outset dismissed the possibility of the nomination of Governor Smith because he is known as "a wet," and therefore too great a risk, are now facing developments that must cause them to reconsider. He would carry New York, of course, they calculated, but the opposition elsewhere would be too great, obviously he would not do. Yet now they find that the Smith boom is formidable outside as well as within the state of New York. At this writing he is actually far ahead in the number of instructed delegates, having 123 to 65 for McAdoo, the next numerically strongest candidate. Smith sentiment is reported to be strong in both Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, and there is said to be a persistent outcropping for him in a number of state delegations where the McAdoo element has claimed control. The movement has passed far beyond the stage of mere home-state favoritism, and already it is predicted that Smith will have at least a third of the instructed delegates.

If even a cautious convention should be forced to nominate Governor Smith, "a wet" and a Roman Catholic, the event will be a sign of the times inviting much comment. In case election should follow nomination the comment, after reflection, would reveal the general conviction (1) that the majority of the people are not for prohibition, (2) that a man's religion is no longer a political handicap and (3) that "from the log cabin to the White House" is not now the only road whereby the poor American boy can reach the highest political honor. The Smith boom is interesting, altogether apart from the personal qualifications or political capacity of New York's governor.

That Body of Yours

A LAZY BOXER.

The manager of a string of boxers brought one of his featherweight boxers to be looked over by his physician. "There's something wrong with this boy, and I want you to find it for me. He is willing to train daily, and does so, but has lost his speed and punch. He has plenty of 'heart' because in his last fight he was knocked out, fell forward, got up again before the count of ten and finished the fight. And when fighters fall forward, they generally stay down for awhile. Besides he lives with me all the time and I know his every movement. He has no bad habits—no he could live cleaner."

I'm trying to put weight on him and yet he enters all his boxing matches three to five pounds lighter than is necessary. I can't build him up."

The physician on examination found the boy well developed, with a round heart and a normal blood pressure.

His teeth were unusually good. His tonsils on first glance seemed to be small and innocent looking, but a closer inspection of right one showed a cleft which on being lifted revealed a mass of white cheesy matter and a broken down condition of the tonsil itself.

The other tonsil has an opening more than a quarter of an inch across, that poured out harmful material when squeezed.

This, then was the cause of his "laziness." His disinclination to arouse himself that made training almost a nightmare, that made rival managers say that he was "tired from overtraining."

Had he been the average fellow, with tonsils ending all that poisonous matter he would have been down on his back, or perhaps getting around on crutches with some stiffened joints.

His training by running on the road his boxing by battling with the rub down following it, and also the plain nourishing food all helped to keep him on his feet despite the condition of his throat.

So while he apparently was fighting a winning fight with the protective forces of his body against his bad tonsils, nevertheless the latter were doing sufficient damage to take the "punch" out of his work.

The physician advised the manager to see a throat specialist.

The removal of the tonsils made all the difference in the world in his ability to go the "whole distance" in his next boxing engagement.

You see being strong sometimes has its disadvantages in that as long as one is on his feet, he thinks there can't be much the matter with him.

THOSE WHO APPEARED AS "BREEZY POINT" CHARACTERS

On Friday evening May 2 a large audience assembled in the gymnasium of the Y. W. C. A. to watch "Breezy Point." The play was delightful, each character being impersonated in a lifelike manner. Elsie Walker made a charming Eleanor Pearl and played her part very vividly. Louise Field was the quiet old Aunt Delby and very demure and sweet she was. Margaret Miller took the part of Ashland Grant with great success. Allison Scott was a delightful Fantine and developed such a French accent that one could not help suspecting that she came from "La Belle France." Emily Todd was the pathetic Clarice Lombardi, a maid forlorn yet rather successful in her attempts at seducing Alice Goldpaugh interpreted the part of Edith Norton, Clarice's bosom friend, with excellent spirit. Margaret Gold was a splendid Laura Leigh very jolly and friendly. Dorothy Maimes was a real Bonnie Vernon. Bernice with her eternal camera and boarding school jabber. Florence Simmons made a vivid old gypsy Clem Valda Johnson impersonated Miss Mollie Doolittle and a very funny old maid she was. Hazel Schurter took the part of Mrs. Hard scratch realistically. Poor Mrs. Hard scratch always being betrayed by the indefatigable twins, portrayed by Robert Avery and Hazel Cameron. Each character was presented so realistically and was received with much applause.

Miss Smith, Mrs. Steiner and Miss Burgett were untiring in their efforts to prepare the girls for the play. Dancing afterwards lasted until 11 o'clock under the supervision of Miss Riskey.

"The City of Palaces"

Genoa has been known as "The City of Palaces." Vienna has long been known as "The City of Harmony," a name of affection which is about all that the late war has left to the once brilliant capital of the empire of the Hapsburgs. It refers to the great part that music and dancing have played in the life of music that it has given to the world.—New York Times.

IF YOU HAVE BUILT A NEW HOUSE

You will find that more than one lock is necessary to save your steps.

You will need a reliable alarm lock for the kitchen, a small striking clock in your dining room, and perhaps a fine striking or chime lock with candlesticks to match for your living room.

You should have at least one lock on the second floor, to save your running down to find out what time it is.

We shall be pleased to help you in the selection of a suitable clock.

Lay Pavement On State Roads

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, May 6.—The following bulletin showing the work done upon state highway contracts is issued by A. W. Brandt, state commissioner of highways for the week ending May 2.

Total number of contracts under way, 179. Total number of men employed by contractors, 2,704. Total square yards of pavement completed during week, 3,627. Total square yards of pavement completed this season, 3,827. Total maintenance force employed by the state, 3,487. The first pavement is being laid this week. With good weather, the amount of pavement put down each week should increase rapidly.

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

BIRTHDAY OF AVIATION.

The birdmen will celebrate today the twenty eighth anniversary of the birth of the aeroplane as it was on May 6, 1896, that Professor Langley's (Samuel Pierpont Langley) steam-driven aeroplane made its first flight over the Potomac. It is sad to record that although the heart-broken inventor's attempts to construct a heavier than air machine met with success, they won for him at the time nothing but scorn and ridicule. In fact Dr. Langley was laughed into the grave for, sensitive soul that he was, he withered under the blasting jeers directed at him and his machine which was dubbed "Langley's Folly." This machine, which caused an ignorant and scoffing world to laugh when it dropped into the Potomac 25 years ago today, is still in existence. In the light of recent aeroplane developments it appears to be a very crude machine—but in trials made a few years ago it thoroughly vindicated itself and its inventor.

WOMEN MINISTERS.

The first woman preacher of the gospel in New England, and the first woman to be ordained to the Universalist ministry, was Phoebe Ann Coffin Hensford, who was born at Nantucket, Mass., a member of the famous Coffin family of that island, ninety-five years ago today. Before entering the ministry she was a teacher and editor and a lecturer on various reforms. In 1858 she was ordained into the Universalist ministry and afterward filled pastorates at Hingham and Waltham, Mass., New Haven Conn., and Jersey City. She was also chaplain of the Connecticut state legislature, the first woman to hold such a position. Mrs. Hensford was ordained twenty years before the pioneer woman clergyman, Autolite Louise Brown, entered the ministry of the Congregational Church. Mrs. Brown, who was married to Samuel C. Blackwell in 1856, was ordained in 1845. She has since become a Unitarian and is now pastor emerita of a church in Elizabeth, N. J. Mrs. Blackwell, who will be ninety-nine this month, has for many decades been a leader in the woman suffrage movement.

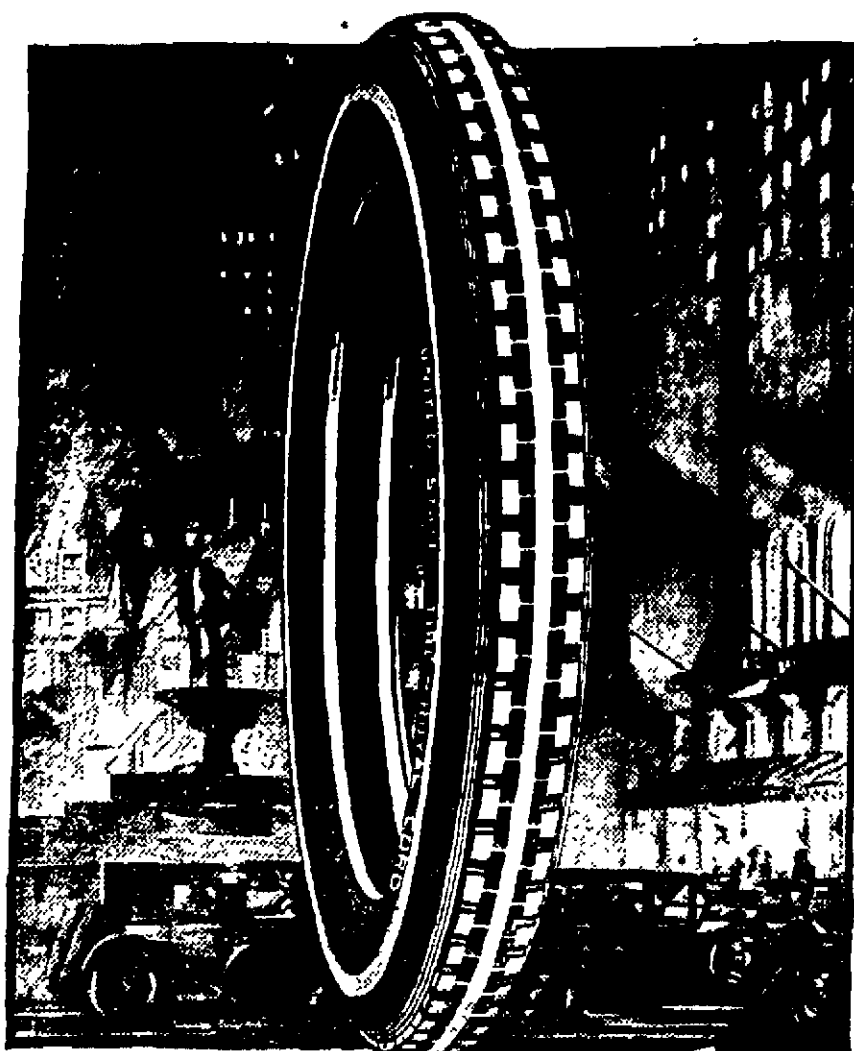

NEW YORK HERALD.

The first number of the New York Herald was issued eight years ago today by James Gordon Bennett, a Scotchman who had emigrated to America in 1819, and, after having been a teacher, proofreader and journalist, established the Herald on May 6, 1855. It was the first paper to introduce a financial department, stock lists and a daily money article. The Herald also led in the policy of getting news regardless of expense, a policy that was continued by the son of the founder, James Gordon Bennett, Jr. The Herald, now a three-cent paper, originally sold for one cent, but was not the first "penny paper" in America, that honor belonging to the New York Sun, founded in 1833. The Evening Telegram, the afternoon edition of the Herald, was the first New York paper to publish a Sunday evening issue—an innovation introduced in America by Frank A. Munsey's paper, the Washington Times, Baltimore News and Philadelphia Times.

N. Y. Planning For Convention

Elaborate Efforts Being Made to Prevent Gouging of Delegates and Crush of Visitors.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, May 6.—With the Democratic national convention approaching on seven league boots, officials in charge of arrangements announced today:

1. The delegates, visitors and their families will certainly "see New York." Plans without precedent in this respect have been worked out.

2. Police will make the city safe for its guests. Pickpockets, slickers and furtive gentry who usually flock where great crowds gather will find a cold "welcome" awaiting them. Boundaries of the "deadline" long maintained in the financial section will be expanded to encompass the five boroughs.

3. Thousands of homes will be thrown open to back up the 60,000 hotel rooms, 150,000 "furnished rooms" and large number of apartments whose tenants are away for the summer, already assured the committee on convention arrangements. This will amply take care of the huge crowds expected, it was stated.

4. There will be no "gouging" by profiteers. Clambakes and outing, a fashion show, a night at Coney Island and a monster parade are among the forms of entertainment planned for visitors.

Miss Elizabeth Marbury, who heads the women's committee, said the doors of the city will be thrown open to the women delegates and wives of the men delegates. Fifteen sub-committees working under her direction are mapping out plans to insure visiting women a good time.

The board of estimate has appropriated $10,000 for the entertainment of the visitors, the city fathers having been reminded that half a century had gone by since a national political convention has honored New York as a meeting place.

An act has been signed by the Hotel Men's Association in which every room and its normal price is listed.

"These prices will remain normal," said George F. Mara, in charge of convention arrangements.

The Merchants' Association and Producing Managers Association stand guarantors. Mara said that business houses and theatres will not "raise the ante."

Police arrangements will be 100 per cent. "Other cities have always drawn on the New York police department for assistance during national convention," Mara explained. But Commissioner Enright will not send for outside help to protect this convention. New York has the reputation of having the best "crook spotters" in the country, and they will be amply able to protect the crowds, he said.

Stanley J. Quinn, vice-chairman of the general committee, announced that 54 sub-committees have been formed to look out for the comfort and entertainment of the delegations from different states and territories.

Thus, for example, Montana business men living here will have complete charge of their "home" delegations, and so on down the line.

INTERLOCUTORY DECREE FOR ELIZABETH D. WHITE

An interlocutory decree of divorce has been granted plaintiff by Supreme Court Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck in the action brought by Elizabeth D. White against John L. White. The court ordered that defendant pay annually $416 to plaintiff, the payments to be made on the first day of each month at the rate of $34.75 at the office of George F. Kaufman, attorney for plaintiff, at Saugerties, for the support of plaintiff. The parties were married at Saugerties, May 1, 1915. The decree is interlocutory only and neither of the parties may marry.

Y. W. C. A. GIRLS STILL MAY USE Y. M. C. A. POOL

Through the courtesy of the Y. M. C. A. the swimming pool is to be available to the girls and women of the Y. W. C. A. during the month of May. Originally this privilege was to end the 30th of April and the season tickets were issued to that date. Therefore, hereafter every plunge must be paid for individually. The details are as before: The pool is open every Tuesday evening from 7 to 10 o'clock.

STEPHAN STREET BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE

Monday afternoon at 4:44 o'clock an alarm of fire was rung in from Box 64, to which the fire department responded. They found a large barn on the property of Esther Reil, at No. 55 Stephan street, on fire. The building and contents were entirely consumed. In the barn was stored some furniture and farm equipment.

Bus Accident at Poughkeepsie

A bus bearing the insignia of the Department of Plants and Structures of New York city, and carrying thirty-five laborers, en route to Gilboa to work on the water supply system, crashed into a pole and took fire near the ferry slip at Poughkeepsie Sunday evening. Nine men were very seriously injured and removed to Vassar Hospital. The driver denied that the brakes were faulty and said that headlights from a car coming up Main street had confused him.

Rivera to Quit

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Madrid, May 6.—General Primo Rivera, head of the Dictatorship, today denied that the present regime will relinquish office. He said the army and navy would be reduced and a number of new civil reforms introduced.

Numerous Hotels Flaunt Success

Telegrams sent to numerous Chambers of Commerce about the country wherein new and modern hotels are in operation have disclosed these hotels are meeting with tremendous success. This proves the contention that modern hotels properly managed are very decidedly paying investments for the stockholder.

Building of O. Henry Hotel in Greenboro was one of the best community investments this town ever made. It has meant the bringing here of many conventions, inducement to tourists and traveling men. It is a great advertising asset. We wish you much success.

C. W. ROBERTS,
Secretary, Chamber of Commerce,
Greensboro, N. C.

Frederick's experience with community financed hotel has been wholly satisfactory. It has been profitable investment, has brought tourists and conventions to city, has advertised city and stimulated community life generally.

Frederick (Md.), C. of C.
W. U. GAY, Sec.

Modern hotels have proved satisfactory investments for us. They appeal to tourists and conventions. New Hotel Flinders here headquarters for one large and several smaller conventions during coming season. Flinders is a community financed hotel in which 99 per cent of citizens have invested. It is our belief you are taking a step in the right direction.

F. L. HOWE,
Sec., Ocean City (N. J.), C. of C.

Fort Cumberland Hotel financed by our people. Interest on bonds and dividend paid regularly. Loans making substantial profit. Other hotels have been remodeled and doing good business also. Our reputation for hotel accommodations has been changed from the worst to the best. One of the best civic investments we have ever made.

CUMBERLAND (Md.), C. of C.

Adequate up to date hotel facilities one of Des Moines assets, important factor our city's remarkable successful efforts. Securing desirable state, national and international conventions. Making our circular today giving information regarding our hotel accommodations.

WARREN R. JACKSON,
Gen. Sec., Des Moines, Iowa.

Nothing that Highpoint has done has been more satisfactory from every standpoint than the erection of our new hotel. Brought tourists and conventions. Best advertisement and added business in every way.

F. J. SIZEMORE,
Sec., Highpoint, N. C.

Our Hotel Pennalta built two years ago was community financed. Has not quite met expectations in direct payment dividends although it is now in money making class. However, value from civic point is incalculable. In two years time have had twenty-five conventions where in the past never had more than two a year. Also attracts many motor tourists. Has had wonderful value in advertising city.

ALTOONA C. of C., Penn.

George Washington Hotel has been a pronounced success in the best advertisement the city ever had. Has brought many tourists and a number of conventions. Increase in value in real estate in immediate vicinity has been as great as the cost of the hotel.

H. R. CAMPBELL,
Sec. C. of C., Washington, Penn.

Several years ago citizens of Winston Salem raised one million dollars and erected Hotel Robert E. Lee from a community proposition standpoint. Project has proven good investment. Winston Salem with this additional hotel facilities became leading convention city of state and many columns of publicity have resulted in newspapers throughout the country helped placed Winston Salem on tourist map and when Winston Salem Roanoke road is built we anticipate be necessary to build a still larger hotel.

(Signed) WILLIAM T. RITTER,
Secretary of Commerce.

Our new hotel best investment citizens ever made for promoting welfare of community. Outsiders would not build hotel so local campaign raised close to one-half million dollars for eight story hotel. Opened in 1922. Successful from start. We placed new contract recently for two additional floors in order to take care of greater business hotels has developed for our community. Previous to new hotel we could never handle conventions; last year we handled fifteen state conventions; this year already have twenty conventions including national convention. More in prospect. Hundreds of tourists and traveling men now stay here overnight, previously passed us by. Numerous other benefits hotels responsible for. The greatest asset any city can have is an up-to-date modern hotel.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE,
Michigan City, Ind.

A city is known by the hotels it keeps. A large percentage of the public has its contact with a community through the hotels. The Ten Eyck and Wellington, Albany's latest modern hotels, have both always paid substantial dividends on stock to the best of our knowledge and from reports made to us. The Ten Eyck so successful that it opened his addition three years ago and Wellington recently finished addition duplicating its capacity and will start in a few weeks still another addition. New hotels have increased business of all hotels and have greatly benefited the city in all business lines through advertising city's facilities and establishing national reputation for hospitality. Hotels were financed by private subscription aided by sales of stock directed by local broker. We figure modern hotels if backed by good service and good management asset to business in general and development of city and of enormous advertising and publicity value. Albany's hotels are a distinct asset to the community making Albany one of the greatest convention and touring cities in the country.

ROY S. SMITH,
Executive Manager Albany C. of C.

Penn Harris Hotel opened January 1, 1918, financed by securities sold in community through Chamber of Commerce leadership cost one million, three hundred thousand and two hundred and fifty rooms added older hotel caused remodeling of several and building of another 150 room house. Penn Harris itself now being doubled in size. Paid consecutive dividends. Satisfactory investment. Makes Harrisburg better known as center. Traveling men gravitate to city which has best accommodations and when they cannot get into new hotel take old one so that all hotel business has profited. Splendid argument for conventions, increasing number of tourists using city hotels.

HARRISBURG C. of C.
DANIEL N. CASEY,
Secretary.

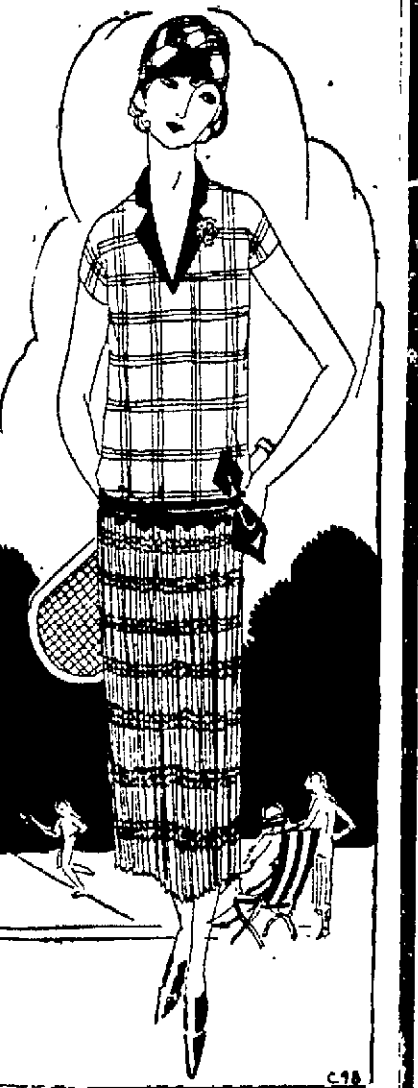

A RED AND WHITE
FROCK FOR SPORT WEAR.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Plaids may have been disappointed to date, for they certainly were once heralded, yet many are worn. One varies the plaid and often makes it more flattering by subjecting it to the pleating process, for nothing is quite exempt from a pleating machine these days.

Here is a charming little summer frock which is in the popular combination of white and red. The hat is red taffeta, smartly trimmed with plaid and the frock reverses the order. One suspects that red shoes might be the choice. Colored shoes have an excellent chance of another lease on life, if women will only restrain their enthusiasm for them by not wearing them "out of bounds," to use a golfing term.

The shops offer many stunning cottons for warm weather wear, some of which are Rodier designs in lovely embroidered effects and extraordinary colorings. Several of these have a cross-bar background with colored flowers, greatly conventionalized and spaced attractively. Such set figures are often at their best when used with plain materials, the composite frock being as popular in wash fabrics as in silks. Linen is more often used with some other material than by itself, voile being its usual running mate. Very dainty and smart effects result from the application of linen on voile.

Everyone realizes how popular the false hem has become, and how effective it is when it is of a contrasting color. The addition of a bright red or blue or green band to the edge of a white skirt is a telling note, whether the skirt be plain or pleated. Roman or plaid ribbon is sometimes used in this way, for this effect is by no means confined to tub materials.

Voiles in dainty pastel colorings hand-drawn or otherwise daintily trimmed are among the fascinating possibilities for summer which it is now time to consider. Coronation braid is used in various scroll and embroidery motifs on the voile frock as well as Mexican handwork and contrasting bindings and bands. Groups of fine ruckings and snappings are both popular. Trimmings for such frocks and peasant embroideries in cross-stitch and other effects are still deemed desirable.

The sports frock of greatest interest at the moment is, however, of flannel. Both flannel and linens subscribe to tailored lines and buttons and severe treatments of all kinds are about the only ones which meet with acclaim. Pockets, long sleeves or none at all, boyish collars and sometimes narrow novelty belts are details of great moment.

Linens and flannels are often made in two sections, but the sheer voile gown is necessarily on softer lines and is generally in one-piece with a slight fullness at the sides. Embroidered and printed voiles take their place with the newer applique effects, for one is right in assuming that an interest in printed chiffons presages an interest in printed voiles.

ACCORD.

Accord, May 5—Mrs. Frances Decker and daughter, Miss Rhoda.

returned to Accord on Saturday, after spending the winter at Waterbury, Conn.

Florence Lawrence of Newburgh spent the week end at Accord.

Herman Gazlay and John Addis drove in two new cars from the Ford plant at Kearney, N. J., on Wednesday.

The Home Bureau will have one more all day sewing meeting on Thursday May 8. Mrs. Skinner says that now is the time to use left overs and scraps of material, as there are so many pretty combinations this spring. So rummage in your attic and look through your scrap bag and bring your materials to the meeting and go home with a new spring dress. Bring your lunch and we will have the usual good "visiting" time eating together.

The Home Bureau meeting last Thursday had several very interesting features. First the luncheon planned by the chairman Mrs. Minnie Schoonmaker, was well balanced and delicious, the main dishes being prepared in the steam pressure cooker. After the dessert, Mrs. John Miller as toastmaster read an original poem in which she described an occasion like the present one, from the standpoint of two interested men. It was certainly appreciated and spurred many others to tell a story or joke or recite a poem.

When the mirth had subsided, Miss Coons and Mrs. Townsend Osterhout, daintily blanching and packed in cans some well washed dandelions, which were then placed in the steam pressure cooker and processed under ten pounds pressure for forty minutes. Attention was called to the fact that by the hot water bath method this sterilizing would have taken 2 or 3 hours, also that the pressure cooker removes all fear of botulism and gives a really better flavored product. The leaders urged that when the greens were eaten next winter, the water from them be used in soup as it contained valuable food elements. After Mrs. Chester Young of Naperville gave a delightfully inspiring talk on flower gardens. She said we had an inherent love for handling the soil and tending growing things and the sooner we yielded to it influence and care some of our time and strength to the creation of a garden, the sooner we would perceive one of the greatest joys of life! She urged the many advantages of perennials over annuals in flower selection. Not only would former less work but their fall full reappearance each spring as one of the most delightful things in the garden. She spoke of several varieties of peonies in her garden and of the wonderful beauty of single ones, and of the fascination of raising them from seed although must wait six years to find out what you had. Her knowledge and love of flowers so captivated and enthused her audience that the discussion was continued until late in afternoon and the other features of the program were put over to another meeting. Mrs. Skinner take a few minutes to speak of fine opportunity fashion was giving us just now, to use up small bits of material in combination. She illustrated her point with three elaborate constructed dresses made of "patches" as she expressed it. It is decided to have a picnic the Thursday in June and Mrs. DeVor was appointed chairman. A committee on arrangements, Mrs. Young having brought with her great basket of blooms from her garden, each woman went home with some lovely nosegays, which were of forsythia, which were readily root in moist earth and a lasting reminder of a good time.

Why So Many Can Afford Autos

The average wealth of every person in the United States on December 31, 1922, was $2,918, according to the Department of Commerce, which has just announced results of its latest decennial survey.

To Charles D. Hastings, president and general manager of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, this information illustrates why there are so many automobiles, and why the economic saturation point for motor cars on the North American continent may never be reached.

"Assuming that the average family contains four persons, its average wealth is more than $11,000, showing that it can well afford to own a motor car," says Mr. Hastings. "Per capita wealth increased 49.6 per cent in the ten years since the December 31, 1912, survey was made, when it was $1,950. The difference—nearly $4,000 for a family of four—is more than sufficient to enable the head of a household to purchase and maintain a motor car at all times."

"While the department pointed out that huge increases in per capita wealth is due principally to the rise in prices in recent years, and not directly to a corresponding increase in the quantity of wealth, as economists figure it, there is no question that the average American family can afford to maintain a higher living standard than ten years ago."

"This is shown in the heavy buying of motor cars, in the greater proportion of more pretentious and comfortable homes being erected the country over, in the greater travel in Pullman cars, in the tremendously increased road building, in the generally better standard of living, and in every line of business."

In per capita wealth, the United States is probably by far the richest of any country of large population. The American nation is also the richest in the world, although three countries have larger populations, India and China much larger.

The department reports that the American national wealth on December 31, 1922, was $320,803,862,000, of which taxed real property is estimated at $155,908,625,000. Total wealth increased 72.2 per cent in the decade.

The 159.1 per cent increase in manufacturing machinery, tools and implements is an indication of the tremendous expansion of industry in the decade covered.

LUTHERAN OFFICES IN FINE BUILDING

Philadelphia, Pa., May 6.—The Board of Publication of the United Lutheran Church is now housed in one of the finest buildings in the land devoted to church publication purposes. The Muhlenberg Building, located at 12th and Spruce streets, eight stories in height in the best style of American business architecture, and erected at the cost of $750,000, is now complete. The United Lutheran Publication House has taken up its headquarters in the building and has presented the structure to the officers of the United Lutheran Church in a special dedication service.

In addition to housing the Board of Publication with a modern printing plant and bindery for the publishing of books as well as the official magazine, periodicals and literature of the United Lutheran Church, the Muhlenberg Building brings together in a central location the Board of Ministerial Relief, the Women's Missionary Society Literature Headquarters, the general offices of the Lutheran League and the offices of the Pennsylvania Ministerium and serves as a general headquarters for all of the official boards and committees centering in Pennsylvania.

The significance of this general headquarters building for many activities and interests of the United Lutheran Church lies in the tendency of various offices of that body to center chiefly in three headquarters cities—New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

Chrysler Crystallizes All Past Experience

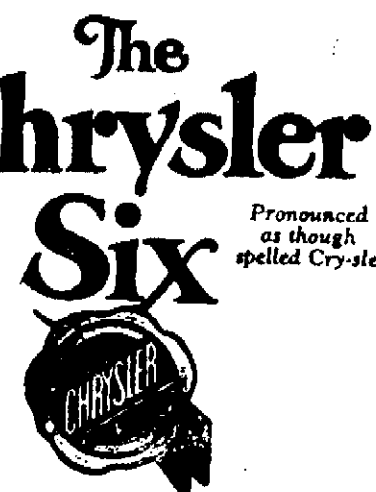

The Phaeton

Every drop of oil in the Chrysler Six motor is thoroughly filtered every 25 miles. The result of this automatic filtering is the constant use of oil that is practically fresh and entirely free from all foreign substance. It means far greater oil economy and contributes in no small measure to the Chrysler's remarkably smooth performance and freedom from carbon.

The Chrysler Six is literally the crystallization of all past experience in the design and manufacture of motor cars.

It uses its power with far greater efficiency than any other car built today. It is so well balanced and cushioned against road shock that it can be driven in comfort 60 miles an hour on a cobbled street or rutted road.

Its three-inch motor develops a high gear speed range of 2 to over 70 miles an hour, combined with a gasoline economy safely over 20 miles per gallon. Never before has a car given such remarkable performance at such low costs.

HERMAN REUNER

24 Harley Avenue
Phone 2385.400 To Be in New
Paltz Pageant"Something for Beach of Us to Do"
Is Motto of Villagers in Preparing For Huguenot Celebration.

The enthusiasm and brisk activity with which the New Paltz pageant idea was launched has risen to ever greater heights. The writing of the scenario of the pageant itself, one of the heaviest bits of work involved in what the village and school propose to do has been accomplished through the brilliant literary talent of Miss Elizabeth LeFevre and the sage dramatic experience of A. B. Bennett, who have headed the committee in charge of the writing of the pageant. The initial portion of their work has been finished and they are now in the throes of casting the characters.

The costume committee, the program committee, the committee in charge of construction the music and the dance committees who have all been doing all that they could in preparation for their real work can now that the completed scenario is in their hands speed up their organizations to full steam ahead. The finance committee which was not dependent upon anyone else for material with a hand to work has been functioning admirably with highly successful results for some time.

The pageant which has been arranged and divided into a prologue episode 1, episode 2 and a epilogue will be entered upon the strip of meadow that lies between the old street and the river probably on that section directly behind the Memorial House and the Old Fort. Seats will be erected so that those who view the pageant will look across the meadow to the Wallkill with the rugged rise of ground stretching up to the mountains in the west forming a picturesque and historical background in keeping with the costumes of the characters in portraying the scene of the settling of New Paltz.

A movement is on foot to arrange to have at least one room in each of the old houses open to visitors on New Paltz Day in June. It is proposed to have hostesses in the attic of the period to serve light refreshments to the guests to have others seated in the parlors of that day, and to give through dress and furnishing an exact replica of life in New Paltz more than two hundred years ago. The best band attainable will be on hand to furnish music at the end of the street and it does not require much imagination to see the old street gaily dressed for the holiday thronged with happy laughing crowds of this picturesque village's friends.

In the evening on the village square which has been the scene of many successful and affairs in the past again to the strains of good music there will be a block dance. First the pageant then the old street with opportunities provided for refreshment and then a dance as a sort of conclusion to the more modern element but more especially to provide a last rendezvous for all the old friends and the new who on June 1 will make New Paltz their objective.

The day of the pageant is going to be such a festive one and so many people drawn hither for one cause or another that if you are there you will see people you have not seen in years. The occasion will take on the guise of an Old Home Day celebration. Of course nothing else will be allowed to interfere with the pageant. The pageant will be held in the afternoon and all other festivities will come after the conclusion of the pageant.

Out Div in June as the villagers call it has already taken on prospective proportions that make this all so great as to make any other public activity in which the community has ever engaged incomparable to this. In the first place the entire village has never united in common purpose so thoroughly as for the pageant. In the second place the facilities of the Normal School have never before been so completely available now. And in the third place there is some phase of the work of the pageant that appeals to every individual. The same thing may not interest all. No two humans are alike.

One may not care about the historic beginnings of the village then he can interest himself in the problem of handling the crowds that will come. Another may find his niche as an Indian and I suppose Indian of the tribe of Lenape that swore allegiance to the powerful Algonquians. The committee needs men for Indians or soldiers or sailors or dignitaries or settlers for some one of the four hundred people required to put on the pageant and the sole condition made in the existing of characters is that each one must be there regularly and promptly for each and every rehearsal. Of course for a little girl, they won't let her take an old man's part.

By this time every man woman and child in New Paltz must be interested. If anyone is still cold and hard then they should think of the publicity the village is getting and pitch in with all the rest to help handle the situation.

BABIES UNHARMED, MOTHER DYING AFTER LAP AT FIRE

By Telegram to The Freeman
New York, May 6.—Mrs. Lillian Canis was still alive today after jumping from the third story of a flame-swept tenement house at 814 West 128th street with her two babies in her arms. The infants escaped unharmed. Josephine De Sylva also jumped when the flames cut off escape through the blazing building. Both women sprained their ankles and were severely cut about the knees. Benjamin Burly clung to a window sill on the fifth floor for five minutes, dropping his death before help reached him. The quick action of a passerby in rousing the other tenants saved their lives.

In Surrogate's court the last will and testament of David C. Storr late of the town of New Paltz has been admitted to probate. The value of the estate is given as exceeding $10,000 real; exceeding $10,000 personal. Elting Harp and Easton Van Wagenen are named as trustees. The beneficiaries are the widow, a number of children of deceased, a brother Jesse, $5,000, a sister, Sarah Elizabeth Bemis, $5,000, subject to dower right of the widow in the real and personal estate. Virgil B. Van Wagenen is attorney for the petitioners.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

At the Kennedy Theatre this evening, the photoplay, "The Virginian" will again be screened. Kenneth Harlan as "The Virginian" has been ideally chosen and Florence Vidor gives a fine characterization of Molly, the little school teacher from Vermont. The stars of this picture are supported by a capable cast.

"The Great Idea," now showing at the Opera House, pleased large audiences on Monday. The picture reveals the inconveniences and annoyances of apartment and flat existence and the procedure for any couple to follow in order to produce a perfect home.

At the Auditorium today—Honey Peters and Mary Philbin in "Human Hearts." It is said to be a thrilling, poignant drama—replete with tender smiles, the tears it will bring, as its gentle, homey humor sinks deeper and deeper. It is a story of home—of a wonderful, beautiful love.

"The Heritage of the Desert," featuring Bobbe Daniels, Ernest Torrence, Noah Beery and Lloyd Hughes, will be shown at the Lyceum Theatre tonight, when it opened Monday. Irvin Willat directed the production which was adapted to the screen by Albert Shelby Le Vigne. And five superior acts of vaudeville.

P. T. A. School No. 1.

The Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 1 will meet at 8 o'clock at the school on Thursday afternoon. The election of officers will take place and a large attendance is requested.

U. S. C. of C. in Annual Meeting

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Cleveland, O., May 6.—Every American agency which affects public opinion faces the problem of creating a general public understanding and making public opinion effective in influencing properly the policies of government. Julius H. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, declared in an address here today featuring the opening of the twelfth annual meeting of that body.

More than 4,000 delegates were present, representing business associations in all parts of the United States when the formal sessions began.

"Industry," Barnes said, "has evolved from its early reliance on man power alone to its modern character of machine and power equipment and therefore increasing dependence on capital and credit, which government so intimately and vitally affects."

He pointed out that the government touches the flow of liquid capital and money in three major aspects:

1. By control of currency issuance.
2. By control of policies of the federal reserve system.
3. By tax laws, which might tend to frighten a large section of the investment capital from active ventures.

When Secretary Mellon proposed a revision of the tax structure, Barnes said "which relieved seven million individual taxpayers and at the same time revised the unwieldy surtax rates to a point which in his judgment might fairly be expected to produce more national revenue and at the same time more fairly balance the chance of gain against the chance of loss inherent in industrial ventures, there was a great popular demand of approval and relief."

The action of congress, however, in refusing to accept the plan proposed by Secretary Mellon, Barnes said, had produced "slow discouragement and growing misgiving and distrust" as the congress substituted "provisions that carry the stamp of the obstinacy of untested personal opinion or of partisan consideration."

"This misgiving," he continued, "was again intensified by the suspension of insincerity which discusses relief of the national treasury and yet levies the additional burden of the bonus grant."

As a result, these "discouraging conditions in spite of sound fundamental and in the face of the first hopeful solution of European instability in five years," Barnes declared, "has developed a hesitancy in the business world."

However, in spite of the fact, he asserted, that the "terrible deflation of 1920-21 has not yet been fully absorbed in all lines of industry," so sound are the fundamentals of American business that the spirit of courage, confidence, and enterprise could be revived quickly by intelligent team play between government and industry.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. William Collier, Mrs. Martin Nylan, Miss Elizabeth Mack and Miss Anna Mack; one son, Frank Mack, a member of the grocery firm of Mack & Frey; one brother, John Mack of Peekskill and sister, Mary Kaney, of New Paltz. Funeral services will be held from her late home on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock and from St. Mary's Church at 9:30, when a requiem Mass will be sung. Interment will be at Rosendale, N. Y.

The funeral of Richard McGinness, who died Friday morning last at the home of Grover C. Henderson on Albany avenue, extension, with whom he made his home for a number of years, was held Monday morning from the residence of his niece, Mrs. Elizabeth Mallia at Port Ewen, at 8:30 o'clock and from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Port Ewen, at 9 o'clock, where a solemn Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. John Murray as celebrant. The Rev. John Waldron, deacon and the Rev. Robert Borwick, sub-deacon. The responses of the Mass were sung by the St. Peter's Church choir, under the direction of Professor John B. Schwalbe, organist. The services were largely attended. The deceased having enjoyed a large circle of acquaintances. The floral tributes were profuse and beautiful. The bearers were Patrick Tucker, Michael Gibbons, James Donnelly, Michael Tucker, Peter Flynn and John Ward. The interment was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, the Rev. Father Fitzgerald, conducting the committal services at the grave.

Hoosiers Are Voting Today

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 6.—Indiana was at the polls today to show its preference in candidates for president in the Republican party, and for governor, congress and local officers in both parties.

Transcending the Republican presidential primary in interest was the contest waged in the Democratic and Republican parties for Governor. Eight Democrats sought the nomination for the chief executive office of the state and six Republicans. Senator Samuel Ralston will have the Democratic allotment of national convention delegates without opposition.

For Johnson-Coolidge tests were lacking but inability of Senator Johnson to conduct his speaking campaign and a well organized Coolidge movement made the president a favorite.

Odds and Ends

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Ahavas Israel will meet Wednesday evening in Weber's Hall on Broadway.

Circle 2 of the Church of the Redeemer will meet at the home of Mrs. William F. Miller, 192 North Manor avenue, on Wednesday evening.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the St. James M. E. Church will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the church parlors.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Fair Street Reformed Church will meet Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the lecture room of the church.

A special meeting for all women of Holy Cross Church has been called for Thursday afternoon, May 8th, at 3 o'clock in the parish house. Each lady is earnestly requested to be present as important matters will be discussed.

The regular business meeting of the Queen Esther Society of the St. James M. E. Church will be held at 7:30 o'clock sharp. This will be followed by a young people's old fashioned social to which all young people of the church are invited. Refreshments will be served.

SMITH SIGNS BILL; HYLAND HAD PROTESTED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., May 25.—Governor Smith signed the Walker bill giving the New York Port Authority the power of subpoena.

At a hearing before the governor yesterday, Mayor Hyland of New York, attacked the measure as "the most iniquitous and outrageous piece of legislation ever passed by the Legislature." He asserted that under the bill the Port Authority could take over the city's water front and launch enterprises in competition of those of the city.

S. Cohen's Sons, clothiers, are offering a limited number of women's hand made imported straw hats. These hats will be exclusive and no two will be alike.

Hard to Kill

From South Carolina comes the story of a farmer who decided to find out just how much heat and cold a bull weevil can stand. He caught one and froze it into a cake of ice, left it there for 24 hours, then thawed the ice and was astonished to see the bug stretch its wings and walk away. He caught it again, put it under a pan on the stove and built up a good fire. The stove got red hot, the pan got red hot, and evidently the weevil also got red hot. At any rate when the farmer lifted the pan the weevil flew out the window and set fire to the barn. The moral of the yarn is not quite clear, but probably it has something to do with the old maxim: Never depend on the weather to kill bugs.—Youth's Companion.

Long in One Factory

Swiss papers report the recent retirement of a seventy-two-year-old textile worker of Sattwil, after having worked in the same factory since her eighth birthday. Her last day was made a festive occasion by her fellow-workers. The table at which she had labored so many years was covered with flowers and more material gifts.

Thieves' Tradition Broken

"If the prince is robbed it is by want of tact."

That is a tradition of the ancient and dishonorable craft of robbery and pocket-picking as practiced in Great Britain.

Despite the protection accorded by London thieves, Prince George's motor-car was ransacked the other day. The prince was robbed of a diamond tie pin and two pairs of diamond cuff links, one a "royal crescent" set, a gift from Queen Alexandra, the other a set of gold cuff links with the letter "G" in diamonds.

A purchaser into whose innocent hands the jewels had fallen turned them over to the police.—New York Journal.

Game in National Forests

According to a recent census of big game in the national forests, deer exceed the total number of all other animals. Their number is given as 440,000. There are 48,000 elk, 12,000 mountain sheep, 8,000 mountain goats, 4,000 moose and 8,000 antelope. The number of buffalo is second only to the deer, being 149,000. Conservation of buffalo is no longer an issue. There will never be sufficient range for them to be hunted for sport, and they are in no danger of extermination because they are so numerous.

Oxygen Blowpipe Used for Breaking Up Metal

The breaking up of large, solid masses of iron or steel, for the purpose of remelting, has heretofore been such a slow and costly operation as to be seldom indulged in, and many blocks of metal of this kind have therefore been abandoned as worthless. The oxygen blowpipe, a cheap and simple apparatus and quick in operation, has wonderfully changed all this, says the Compressed Air magazine.

For example, we can have a cylindrical mass of metal, technically known as a "ladle set," more than six feet in diameter, of equal length, and weighing more than forty-five tons. A most hopeless case. A long piece of one-quarter-inch iron pipe is connected by flexible hose with a "bottle" of oxygen. The free end of the pipe is made red hot and the oxygen slowly and carefully turned on. The end of the pipe begins to burn with intense heat and when thrust against the block it begins to bore a hole right into the mass to a depth of three feet or more. The hole will be, say, an inch in diameter, and the molten metal will flow out of it in a little stream. In this way a considerable number of holes are quickly burned. These are charged with gelignite and fired all at once after the block has been placed in a special pit.

Thus is obtained a mass of pieces that are generally as small as required.

American Girls Easily Best Dancers in World

"The American girl makes the best dancer in the world, bar none."

That is the sweeping statement made by Miss Fawn Gray of New York, herself a dancer, who has just completed a "round-the-world" trip, during which she studied dancing in various cities, according to the New York World.

"Next to the American girl comes the English girl for all-around dancing," continued Miss Gray. "I danced in London, in Paris, at Monte Carlo and at Deauville, and, strangely enough, there was more real competition in London than at any other place. In Berlin the girls are a little too stiff for graceful dancing."

"You'd imagine that the French girls would be the most graceful and accomplished in showing off their dresses, wouldn't you? Well, while I was there a competition was held to decide the best mink in Paris, and it was won by an American girl."

Miss Gray visited Honolulu on her trip, and while there danced Hawaiian dances in competition with real Hawaiians.

"I won all three of the contests in which I took part," she concluded, "so that alone would tend to bear out my contention that the American girl is the best dancer in the world, now wouldn't it?"

Identifying Pictures

French chemists have perfected new methods of identifying pictures, according to the American Chemical Society. They use groups of red, blue, green or white light to light the picture, and they examine the suspected canvas with the spectrometer. This puts in relief the retouchings, scrapings and changed signatures which constitute a false picture. By employing the ultra-violet ray they make the zinc white and certain varnishes stand out by fluorescence. By scraping off small amounts of paint they have made spectrographic analysis and have been able to determine, for example, in a false Renoir, the presence of a cadmium yellow, when Renoir only used chrome yellow.

When Asquith Laughed

Mr. Asquith was addressing a political meeting one day when someone in the audience made a very personal remark concerning Mr. Asquith.

"Who said that?" demanded the speaker angrily.

There was a sudden silence. Then a man in the rear stood up and pointing to a farmer wearing a dilapidated straw hat, shouted: "It was him wi' the coo's breakfast on his head."

The reply was altogether too much for Mr. Asquith, and he had to join in the general roar of laughter.—Boston Transcript.

SCIENCE FINDS GELATINE A VALUABLE AID TO DIGESTION

During the past few years, science has brought to light the importance of several hitherto unappreciated factors for the promotion of rational living. First it was calories—then, vitamins—now—comes the all-important and helpful—gelatine. The value of plain, edible gelatine, which is a natural product of animal origin, has been discovered by scientific investigations conducted by eminent authorities. It has been found that gelatine is of such great importance in the human diet that it should be added to the diet of old age.

When dissolved and added to milk, gelatine prevents the curdling of milk and the formation of hard curds, which are frequently a cause of colic and other stomach disturbances of infants. Medical science prescribes various remedies for the purpose of rendering cow's milk more easily digestible to the human infant. By the use of the most valuable discovery in the connection is "gelatine-ized" milk, which means the addition of a level tablespoonful of pure, unadulterated gelatine to a quart of milk, according to these directions: Soak one level tablespoonful of gelatine in 1/2 cup of cold milk, for ten minutes; then place the milk in a shallow pan, dipped in cold water, and chill. Set bowl containing remaining mixture in pan of ice water and stir constantly, until mixture begins to thicken, then fold in heavy cream, beaten until stiff. Turn into a ring mold, first dipped in cold water, and chill. Remove mixture from ring mold to serving dish and, if desired, garnish with glazed cherries, cut to represent flowers, and angelica cut to represent leaves and stems. Fill center with first part removed from pan and cut in cubes.

Gelatine is Invaluable For Invalids and Convalescents
If you have ever had to take care of an invalid or a convalescent, you know how difficult it is to tempt a fabled appetite with a sufficient variety of dishes that are palatable and nutritious at the same time. Gelatine solves that problem in two ways. First of all, the variety of dishes you can make with it—in combination with milk, eggs, vegetables, broths, fresh or canned fruits and their juices—is almost endless. They look so pretty and appetizing that your patient is sure to enjoy eating them. Better than that, these scientific tests have shown that gelatine preparations, because of their ease of digestion and their nutritive value, improve the general physical condition of the patient.

In spite of its scientific importance in the diet, plain granulated gelatine is much more than a health food. Remember that great chefs and millions of fastidious women are using it daily in the preparation of an endless variety of appetizing dishes that are delightful to look at and even more delightful to eat. It affords the dainty housekeeper an opportunity for utilizing plain, every-day foods—and even left-overs—and making them into original and attractive delicacies. And at the same time it is of such enormous benefit to you and to your children! The wise woman makes it an important part of her daily menu.

Marshmallow Pudding
1 envelope Plain Granulated Gelatine
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup boiling water
1 cup sugar
Whites of three eggs
1/4 teaspoonful vanilla
Macaroons
Soak gelatine in cold water five minutes, dissolve in boiling water, add sugar and as soon as dissolved, add bowl containing mixture in pan of ice water; then add whites of eggs and vanilla and beat until mixture thickens. Turn into a shallow pan, first dipped in cold water, and stand until thoroughly chilled. Remove from pan and cut in pieces of size and shape of marshmallows; roll in macaroons which have been dried and rolled. Serve with cream.

Conductor Found the Lumberjack Too Lively
The wood burned by the locomotives in the early days of the railroads was laid at points along the line and from the platforms the conductor and brakemen had the duty of throwing it toward the tender. Educated first in the rougher work of freight train running, this task was handed without complaint by most passenger trainmen, but it must have been viewed differently by a certain conductor who had come from the East and who soon after had an experience that gave him enduring desire to go back to more civilized communities.

This conductor came out to Wisconsin believing that his acquaintance with Eastern railroad operations would make him invaluable, shortly, to his new employers. He got a flying start through influence that landed him a passenger conductor's post, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press. He might have known all about the technical requirements of the job, but he knew little of human nature as presented in the common to the Northwest. On the first run he encountered the lumberjacks, rough, good-hearted fellows, when traveling in gangs on the railroad, and with little intent to do harm. The conductor started to collect the fare. The first lumberjack that he approached withheld his ticket. The conductor could not see the joke, when the passenger only grinned in response to the repeated demands for his fare. He grew angry and was for using force to compel the passenger to do as he wanted. But suddenly he found himself in a seat on the coalbox, while lumberjacks, amid hilarity, stripped off his conductor's uniform and placed on him a coat, mackinaw and cap of their own. His own clothes were retained by a member of the gang.

One Dollar of 1864 Found in Ohio Town
Numismatists throughout the United States are manifesting considerable interest over the reported discovery in a small town, O., recently of an 1864 one dollar, a coin known among collectors as the "King of American Rare Coins" and variously valued at from $100 to $12,000. This is one of the few coins of that particular issue in existence, and with its discovery the number of all eight are now known.

Gelatine For Indigestion

Aside from the specific uses of pure granulated gelatine for infants, and childhood, the investigation also found it of great value as an aid to general digestion. It may be prepared plain or in combination with fresh or canned fruits, fish, meat, vegetables, or soup, according to the diet to be followed. As most of us suffer from time to time from the indigestions of eating, the advantages of following a heavy dinner with a delicious dessert or salad prepared with gelatine, as follows, will be readily understood:

Gelatine and Orange Trifle (Serves six people)

- 1 envelope Plain Granulated Gelatine
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1/2 cups boiling water
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1 Grated rind of one orange
- 1 tablespoonful lemon juice
- 1/2 pint heavy cream

Soak gelatine five minutes in cold water, dissolve in boiling water; add sugar, orange juice, grated rind and lemon juice and strain. Pour one-half the mixture into a shallow pan, dipped in cold water, and chill. Set bowl containing remaining mixture in pan of ice water and stir constantly, until mixture begins to thicken, then fold in heavy cream, beaten until stiff. Turn into a ring mold, first dipped in cold water, and chill. Remove mixture from ring mold to serving dish and, if desired, garnish with glazed cherries, cut to represent flowers, and angelica cut to represent leaves and stems. Fill center with first part removed from pan and cut in cubes.

Why Lysine is Essential in the Human Diet
But perhaps the most interesting discovery about gelatine lies in the fact that nature has given it such an abundance of the growth-promoting element, lysine.

We must realize that some foods are lacking in lysine and are thus deficient in an essential nutritive factor. For example, if a child were fed on a complete diet except protein, the sole source of protein being white bread, that child would not grow normally, because of the absence of lysine, but if, in combination with white bread, the child received plenty of gelatine, this fault would be corrected. You cannot give a growing child pure gelatine too often, and there are so many ways of preparing it in attractive desserts and salads, and with meat, fish, vegetables and even in candies, that it never tires the taste. Here is one—

This conductor came out to Wisconsin believing that his acquaintance with Eastern railroad operations would make him invaluable, shortly, to his new employers. He got a flying start through influence that landed him a passenger conductor's post, says the St. Paul Pioneer Press. He might have known all about the technical requirements of the job, but he knew little of human nature as presented in the common to the Northwest. On the first run he encountered the lumberjacks, rough, good-hearted fellows, when traveling in gangs on the railroad, and with little intent to do harm. The conductor started to collect the fare. The first lumberjack that he approached withheld his ticket. The conductor could not see the joke, when the passenger only grinned in response to the repeated demands for his fare. He grew angry and was for using force to compel the passenger to do as he wanted. But suddenly he found himself in a seat on the coalbox, while lumberjacks, amid hilarity, stripped off his conductor's uniform and placed on him a coat, mackinaw and cap of their own. His own clothes were retained by a member of the gang.

Largest Grain Elevator
Enough wheat to feed 500,000 persons for one year can be stored in a grain elevator recently built at a railroad terminal on the eastern seaboard. The structure, said to be the largest of its kind in the world, will hold 2,500,000 bushels. Figuring the United States average per capita consumption at about five bushels per year, the supply in this huge storehouse is sufficient to feed some of Europe's hungry nations for twelve months. The quantity that can be kept in this granary is estimated to be about one-fifth as much as the total crop of Iowa.

No Last-Minute Goal
A townsman dropping in on a care-free college youth found him humped over a ponderous tome. Whereupon the following conversation ensued:
"Studying?"
"Yeah, Gotta."
"How?"
"Geometry ain't like football."
"Huh?"
"Can't make a goal in the last two minutes."

Dye Research in U. S. Costly
Dye research in the United States since the outbreak of the European war in 1914, when German chemical dyes were substantially cut off from the world, had cost more than $20,000,000 up to 1920 and large sums have since been spent to perfect discoveries during those critical years. Nevertheless 43 per cent of the imported dyes in 1922 had again come from Germany.

Center for Furniture
Furniture factories are locating rapidly in the South and the state of North Carolina has become a thriving furniture center in the last five years. In 1910 that state had only 63 factories producing $1,235,000 worth of furniture, but today there are 107 factories with an output of $30,280,000. The pay roll has increased five times in this industry alone.

Supreme Court Is in Session

Many of 300 Cases on Calendar Go Over Term—Sheldon Grand Jury Foreman—Day Calendar.

The May term of the supreme court was convened Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the court house with Judge Joseph Rosch presiding. There is a grand jury in attendance. Hebron Sheldon was appointed foreman of the grand jury.

There are over 300 cases on the calendar, a good portion of which were marked over the term at the call of the calendar. Five were announced as settled and several others were marked for trial although they were in the process of being settled. The cases announced as settled are: No. 135, Adelbert Chambers and others against W. S. Chapman, Brininger & Canfield attorneys for plaintiff and Amos Van Ethen for defendant, No. 214, Kirk G. Howard against Louis Mayersohn, a negligence action, Grant M. Brininger for plaintiff and Hugh Kelly for defendant, No. 248, Henry D. Abel against Edward Mertens, an action for commission, Grant M. Brininger for plaintiff and Stegman & Stegman for defendant, No. 250, John T. Buckley against Louis F. Carpenter, account, Amos Van Ethen for plaintiff and Roscoe Irwin for defendant, No. 257, Terry Moffit against Frank L. Lent and another, a negligence action, William D. Cunningham for plaintiff and Frank J. O'Neill for defendant.

A day calendar consisting of the following cases was made up for today: Nos. 119, 185, 190, 194, 228, 233, 251 and 272.

The following trial jurors were excused for the term by the court, they being able to present legal excuses. Patrick Baldwin, Nelson Hedges, Charles Johnson, Edgar S. Mackey, Albert P. Quimby, Clarkson Reynolds, Walter Smith, Gerow Thomas, S. D. Todd, Myron Terwilliger and F. C. Wood. The following were not qualified as jurors or were over age and their names were ordered taken from the jury list: John L. Coutant of Marlborough, Harry Evans, Lloyd, Henry I. Ponda, Saugier, John Meyer, E. Sopus and Joseph Finkler of Wawarsing. Hiram Atkins of Marlborough was excused until May 19 and Ira Ellsworth was excused until May 12.

There were but fifteen names left in the jury box and an extra panel of jurors was ordered drawn. Immediately after Judge Rosch had charged the grand jury and empaneled the petit jury on Monday afternoon, Judge Clearwater arose and said that since the last trial term of the supreme court in this county, two members of the Ulster Bar had died, the one, the Hon. C. Meech Woolsey, was the oldest member of the bar, the other, John R. DeVany, probably was one of the oldest living members in the southern part of the county. The acting president of the Ulster Bar Association had appointed Mr. Chipp, Judge Van Ethen, Mr. Vanderlyn, Mr. Lent and himself to prepare and present at this term of the court a memorandum regarding Mr. Woolsey's death. Another committee had been appointed relative to that of Mr. DeVany. He, the judge, presented the following:

In the death of the Hon. Cyprian Meech Woolsey, who died at his home at Milton on the 24th of April last, the Ulster Bar has lost its oldest member. Born at Marlborough in 1841, at 23 he entered the army to preserve the union as the second lieutenant of Company I of the Second New York Cavalry. Speedily promoted to first lieutenant, he was breveted as captain for meritorious conduct by the governor of New York, pursuant to a concurrent resolution of the legislature of the state, serving with distinction under Generals Custer and Sheridan in the campaign of the Valley of the Shenandoah and northward, having a horse shot under him on the field.

He was mustered out of the service with honor at the close of the war, being commissioned as second lieutenant in the United States Regular Cavalry, and served in that capacity in the southern states during the period of reconstruction. In 1867, he was commissioned by the Governor of New York commissary of subsistence of the Twentieth New York State Militia, and served in that capacity until his regiment was disbanded. Chosen justice of the peace of his native town of Marlborough in 1866, he served continually until January, 1887, serving also as a justice of the ancient court of sessions; elected a member of the assembly in 1871 and 1872, he took an active interest in the rehabilitation of the economic condition of the state, which greatly had become depressed during the War of the Rebellion, elected supervisor of his town in 1882, he served in that important office during the years 1883, 1884, 1886, 1887, 1888, 1889, 1890, 1912, 1913, 1914, 1915, 1916 and 1917, being the chairman of the board in 1887 and 1888. Repeatedly he was chosen as a delegate to the state conventions of the Republican party. Active in the matters of the Grand Army of the Republic, he was chosen a delegate to the national encampment at Louisville, Kentucky, in 1895. He long served as commander of Ketchikan Post of the Grand Army and secretary of the Second New York Cavalry Association.

Probably no member of the Ulster Bar had personal charge of the investment of money for more estates than he. He drew the wills of testators, settled their estates, invested the funds of the beneficiaries, always without a loss, and always with resultant benefit. As a lawyer, he possessed not only courage and conviction, but great fertility of resource, and being a man of strict integrity and fine ideals, he accumulated a lucrative practice. His most marked personal trait, however, was a genial attitude for friendships. No lawyer of our generation had his felicitous facility in greeting not only his fellow members of the bar and his clients but the general public, it mattering little to him whether personally he knew them or not. Withal he was a fine type of the rural lawyer, a type which too rapidly is disappearing from the halls of the courts of justice.

Resolved, that the sympathy of the bar be tendered to his wife and family, and that this memorandum and resolution be presented to the court, with a request that it be entered in full upon the minutes, and that a transcript certified by the clerk be forwarded to his widow. All of which respectfully is submitted.

A. T. CLEARWATER,
HOWARD CHIPP,
JOHN G. VAN ETHEN,
JOHN N. VANDERLYN,
A. D. LENT.

After reading the memorandum, Judge Clearwater said Mr. Woolsey, uniting the names of Cyprian, the great bishop of Carthage, and Woolsey, the great cardinal of England, might have gone far in the church, but he chose the bar, and became the youngest member of a wonderful galaxy of lawyers, whom he, the judge, met when he first came to the bar fifty-two years ago. Among its then members were Hardenburgh, Theodore R. Westbrook, Marius Schoonmaker, the elder Fowler, Kenyon, Stebbins, Lawton, Augustus Schoonmaker, the elder Chipp, Lounsberry, the elder Frederick Westbrook, Whitaker, DeWitt, Bookstaver, Williams, Young, the elder Carpenter, Lyon, Keeler, Griffiths and Mr. Woolsey.

With an impressive pathos, Judge Clearwater said "they are all gone." He was unable to proceed further and sat down. For five minutes there was an absolute silence in the court room. No one else spoke. Judge Rosch quietly directing the clerk to enter the memorandum upon the minutes and to send a certified copy to Mrs. Woolsey, took up the calendar.

Fake Bank Notes In Hilly City
Newburgh Visited Saturday by Gang of Sharpers Who Succeeded in Exchanging Considerable Spurious Paper for Good Coin of Realm and Made Escape.

The Newburgh News says: Newburgh was visited on Saturday night by a gang of sharpers who in a brief period converted counterfeit national bank bills into good coin of the realm. The fellows—from all accounts there were three or four of them—worked in different localities and, having accomplished that which they set out to do, got out of the city before they were discovered.

Saturday night had been selected for the "killing," probably with a knowledge that under ordinary circumstances it would be Monday morning before it would be discovered anything crooked had been done. The fact that the Columbus Trust Co. was open during the evening brought to light the situation, which it would otherwise have been possible when one of the patrons came in late to deposit cash received after regular banking hours. One of the bills presented was a $10 bill, and it was thrown out at once by the teller. Soon after another was offered. Both of these came from Broadway merchants. This morning there were several more spurious bills, one merchant offering for deposit two.

Inquiry in the other banking institutions shows that Water street was also victimized about the same time as were the Colden street and Broadway merchants, two bad bills having been discovered when deposits were offered at the National Bank of Newburgh. None had been received or offered in the Quassaick or Highland National Banks up to noon today. One of the bills was turned over to the police and it is there awaiting the original owner.

The bank officials say the counterfeit is one that might pass for genuine on anyone who was not accustomed to handling bank bills, but to one who has done much business it would be discovered on first sight. The paper is somewhat stiffer than the genuine, and the printing is poorly done, particularly as to the lights and shades. The paper at first glance is similar to that used by the treasury department, having the silk threads interwoven in the pulp.

In one of the Broadway stores a loaf of bread was purchased the one presenting the bill, the man walking off with $9.92 of unquestionable funds, and in another instance the amount of purchase was ten cents. In no instance, so far as can be learned, were the purchases made in excess of half a dollar. There is no clue to the men who did the work, nor can there be anything like an identifying description of them obtained.

In the banks where the counterfeit bills were presented no names will be given. It is possible there may be others of the bogus type still in the tills of those who received them. It is a long time now since Newburgh had a genuine raid by this class of men, and naturally those who were not cautious were readily caught by them.

One storekeeper described the men who gave him the bill as five feet, nine or ten inches high, one thin and one stocky, about 25 or 30 years of age. One wore glasses and was dressed in dark clothes while the other was dressed in a raincoat and light colored hat.

DANCE SATURDAY EVENING AT CLERMONT HALL.

What promises to be one of the best dances to be held in this locality will be held Saturday evening, May 10, at Clermont Hall, when the original Marburger orchestra of Reading, Pa., will appear at that hall. This orchestra has just finished a "twelve-five weeks" engagement with B. F. Keith vaudeville circuit throughout the east, and is considered one of the best and place orchestras this side of the Mississippi. Jack Wells, the golden voiced tenor of Keith vaudeville fame, will personally appear with this orchestra and will sing many popular songs. This dance will be conducted by William Whitaker, who conducts dances each week at Clermont Hall.

New Test Vote On Mellon Plan

Is G. O. P. Senators Plan Following Adoption of Democratic Rates Monday—Insurgents Threaten to Restore Excess Profit Tax.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, May 6.—Smoldering under the defeat of the Mellon taxes, Republican leaders rallied their forces in the senate today to save the remainder of the administration's new revenue bill.

Although a coalition of Democrats and Insurgent Progressives wrote the Democratic (Simmons) rates into the tax reduction bill, administration spokesmen gave notice they would force another test vote on the Mellon plan before the measure is finally enacted by the senate. Indications were that the Mellon plan would only be defeated again if a second vote is taken.

The administration ranks faced a new menace to their program today in the proposal of Republican insurgents to restore the excess profits tax, condemned by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. Led by Senator Brookhart, Republicans of Iowa, the insurgents announced they would force a vote on his plan to assess a tax ranging from 10 to 40 per cent upon all excess and undivided profits of corporations.

A similar proposal also was made by Senator Jones of New Mexico, one of the Democratic finance leaders. The Jones rates however were far less than the plan proposed by Brookhart. Administration leaders announced they would oppose both proposals and were confident of rallying sufficient votes to defeat them.

"I will propose a tax of from 10 to 40 per cent on excess profits," Brookhart said today, in explaining his plan. "It will yield the government a revenue of $200,000,000 a year and if it is adopted all other taxes can be reduced. My plan will get Secretary Mellon all the revenue he needs and we could then remove most of the 'smaller taxes'."

With night sessions the order, beginning today, there were indications the new revenue bill would be finally enacted by the senate within 48 hours. It must then go to conference to adjust difference between the house and senate bills. The house adopted the Longworth compromise which differs chiefly from the Simmons plan in that its surtaxes range upward only to 37 1/2 per cent.

A comparison of the Mellon, Longworth and Simmons bills follows:
Normal tax, incomes:
$4,000, Mellon 3 per cent; Longworth 2 per cent; Simmons 2 per cent.
$4,000, Mellon 6 per cent; Longworth 5 per cent; Simmons 4 per cent.
Above $8,000, Mellon 6 per cent; Longworth 6 per cent; Simmons 6 per cent.
Surplusage, incomes:
On $10,000, Mellon 1 per cent; Longworth 1 1/2 per cent; Simmons 1 per cent.
On $25,000, Mellon 8 per cent; Longworth 7 1/2 per cent; Simmons 7 per cent.
On $50,000, Mellon 15 per cent; Longworth 14 1/2 per cent; Simmons 14 per cent.
On $100,000, Mellon 25 per cent; Longworth 24 per cent; Simmons 23 per cent.
Above $200,000, Mellon 25 per cent.

cent: Longworth 37 1/2 per cent; Simmons 38 per cent.
Above $500,000, Mellon 25 per cent; Longworth 37 1/2 per cent; Simmons 40 per cent.

The ultimate bill, as sent to the White House undoubtedly will be a compromise between the Longworth and Simmons rates. A fight, however, will come over surtaxes as the house previously voted against any maximum rate above 37 1/2 per cent. It was generally believed the conferees would take ten days or two weeks to adjust the technical difficulties, with indications the measure would not go to the White House until the last week in May. A veto by President Coolidge then would force an extra session of congress after the presidential conventions.

Poilus More Ignorant Than Yankee Soldiers
Lieut. Col. Jean Fabry, rapporteur to the army commission of the chamber of deputies, has contributed a rather sensational article to l'Intransigeant upon illiteracy in the French army.

Upon an average, only two out of ten of seven hundred recruits of twenty years of age, just received by two French infantry regiments, could be classified as educated in the ordinary sense of the word. Of the remaining eight, five upon an average knew how to read and write a little; two were able to spell with great difficulty and to write illegibly, while the eighth was totally illiterate.

In order to show that these figures, which are even more depressing than our American mentality tests at the time of the war, are fairly representative, Colonel Fabry points out that these recruits came from 31 different departments, mostly from the highly developed northeastern districts. They were drawn from all classes of occupation, but mostly from agriculture. A very large proportion of them had no idea where the treaty of peace was signed and nearly all were unable to say who made the laws of the country.—Living Age.

Fast Bouts at Armory May 7

Jack Douglas and Soldier Jones, heavyweights, will stage the star twelve round bout at the armory bouts Wednesday night. The semifinal of eight rounds will bring together Joe Stanley of Philadelphia and Edwin Riley, former A. A. U. champion. There will also be three six round bouts. Bobby Anderson of New York will clash with Rommy Lequire of the navy; Bob Grant and Lew Cohen, both of Brooklyn, will mix it up, and Jimmy Carlson of Brooklyn and Mickey Mass of Staten Island will also step. The bouts will start promptly at 8 o'clock. As usual ladies will be admitted free. At the bouts held previously there was a goodly attendance of the fair sex who seemed to enjoy the boxing.

WILLIAMS TO GET CHANCE AT OLYMPIC MARATHON

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, May 6.—It was announced today that the American Olympic Committee had accepted Harry Williams, of the Hurja Club, Quincy, Mass., as a member of the Olympic marathon team, after investigating charges that Williams had failed to run over the full distance of the recent Boston Marathon. According to the committee, the charges probably grew out of the fact that Williams changed his sweater during the race and thus ran the rest of the distance without his competitor's number.
He will be asked to run a special race with Frank Zupa, to determine the sixth member of the American team after the squad reaches France.

St. Peter's to Have Teams

Monday evening a large number of the male members of St. Peter's parish met in the school hall and reorganized the St. Peter's Lyceum. The Lyceum members will take the field in all lines of athletics and social affairs. The following officers were elected: President, Otto Thurn; vice president, John Benkert; treasurer, John Winters; secretary, Joe Koerag; honorary president, the Rev. J. E. Neumann; director, the Rev. J. D. Ostermann. It is planned immediately to place a baseball team in the field. The first practice will be held Thursday evening at Hasbrouck Park. In the near future the Lyceum will put on a minstrel show assisted by the young ladies of the parish.

Immense Amount to Be Spent for Golf

A golf statistician estimates that a total of approximately $500,000,000 will be spent by golfers this year. He figures as follows:
Dues, $100,000,000; automobile tires, $100,000,000; golf apparel, $50,000,000; caddies, $10,000,000; golf balls, $30,000,000; golf property, $25,000,000; construction work, $25,000,000; club salaries, $25,000,000; golf resort hotels, $25,000,000; clubhouses, $20,000,000; travel, $20,000,000; golf sticks, $13,000,000; seeds, $5,000,000; tobacco, $5,000,000; club furnishings, $5,000,000; course equipment, $5,000,000; lockers, $3,000,000; golf bags, $2,000,000; beverages, $2,000,000; golf architects, $1,000,000.

It is further estimated that $2,000,000,000 worth of automobiles will be used by golfers during the year, and that $1,000,000,000 will be expended on and because of golf alone.

PETE DONOHUE PAID $5.85 TO HURL GAME

Cincinnati Star Caught in Texas Exhibition Contest.

Ever hear of a major league pitcher star paying $5.85 to pitch a game on a barnstorming trip?

No! Well, that's what happened to Peter J. Donohue of the Cincinnati Nationals, who was the feature performer in a barnstorming game between the Fort Worth All-Stars and a club at Leonard, Tex., led by Topper Rigney, Detroit shortstop.

You see it all came about this way: Pete agreed to pitch the game for the Fort Worth club and the team departed for Leonard via the automobile route. It was agreed that the company which furnished the automobiles would be paid a certain sum.

The boys were off for Leonard one Saturday morning. It ordinarily takes about four hours to make the 100-mile trip. But it rained all night and bad roads slowed the automobiles up. As a result, the team arrived in Leonard an hour after time for the game to start.

The guarantee on Saturday's game was automatically off.

Sunday, it rained hard all morning. But the boys didn't care—they had rain insurance. If Jupe Pluve would only turn on the faucet from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. for 10 inches the team would collect $1,250.

Unfortunately it stopped before the insurance time limit. The sun came out. But only 300 fans were out to see the game.

At 4:15 p. m.—fifteen minutes after the insurance policy expired—it rained cats and dogs. The game was called off in the third inning, the fans got their money back and the players were left holding the sack.

Then they all had to pitch in to pay the automobile company! Pete says it was the first time he'd ever paid for the privilege of pitching a baseball game.

Parent of Modern Games

Handball is believed to be the parent of all modern games of ball, the ancestor of tennis, cricket and baseball. First the hand was covered with a glove to protect it. Then came the first crude form of racket and bat, which underwent many changes until the present-day racket and bat were evolved.

Industrial League Formed

At a meeting Monday evening at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, an Industrial Twilight League was formed. The following six teams were represented at the meeting: Fuller Shirt Co., Columbia Shirt Co., Kingston Gas and Electric Co., Van Slyke & Horton, Katterman & Mitchell and the Ulster and Delaware Railroad.

Games are to be played at the Athletic Field and Hasbrouck Park on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings. Games will be called at 6:30 o'clock. The first game will be staged on Monday evening, May 19. Arthur Rice will be the umpire and A. W. Buley, general manager of the league.

The Chamber of Commerce and other organizations will give trophies. On Monday next a meeting will be held to complete the schedule for the season.

Twilight League Organized Here

At a meeting held with Physical Director Norman Miller at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening by representatives of some of the city's Sunday schools it was decided to organize a Twilight League to play at the Athletic Field. Five teams have so far entered, the Clinton Avenue M. E., Trinity M. E., St. James M. E., Rondout Presbyterian, and Church of Redeemer, with a possibility of the Spring Street Lutheran and the Ponckhockie Congregational schools entering teams. A final meeting will be held next Monday at which time every team is expected to deposit $10. Half of that amount will pay the running expenses and the other half as a guarantee that the team will complete the season. The league will co-operate with the Industrial League so that dates for games will not conflict as both leagues will use the Athletic Field.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES.

Jacobs walked Caveney with the bases filled in the ninth, after which he walked to the club house, leaving Reds with a 5 to 2 decision over the Cubs. Mays pitched laudably after the third inning.

George H. Ruth socked his sixth homer of the season during the Yankees' 10 to 5 victory over the Athletics. Shawkey pitched shutout ball for six innings and then lost interest. It was the seventh straight defeat for the "house of Mack."

The Dodgers won in a canter from the Braves, 10 to 4. Fournier hitting two home runs and Wheat one.

The Red Sox smote three Senators' pitchers with vehemence and effect and won, going away 8 to 3. Flanagan, Wamby and Lee contributed the features, if any.

After playing class A baseball on the day previous, the Phillies stepped out of character long enough to push Wayland Dean off the premises in four innings and beat the Giants 5 to 7.

Edwards subdued the Browns after the third inning while the Indians got well acquainted with Kolb and went on to win by a score of 5 to 3.

The inspired hitting of Heilmann, who got four safeties in five attempts, staked the Tigers 18 to 5 decision over the White Sox, the winners moving into second place and the losers into fourth.

Last Night's Fights.

Dempsey-Wills Date Change

Now Likely to Be on Labor Day or on August 30 Because International Polo Matches Are Set Down for Sept. 6.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, May 6.—Actuated by the fact that some of our best customers might be torn between conflicting desires and box offices, it is probable that Tex Rickard will change the date of the Dempsey-Wills fight, originally set for September 6, to either Labor Day or August 30, according to reports in circulation today.

The original date conflicts with the first of the international polo matches between America and Great Britain and while there is little in common between polo and pugilism, officials of the Polo Association have pointed out to Mr. Rickard, with laudable truth, that box office men the world over talk the same language. They insist upon the customers saying it with greenbacks, and there is only so many of the latter in the world.

"I have no desire to run my bout as a counter attraction to the polo matches," Rickard was quoted as saying today. "The polo officials have asked to set forward or set back the date of the Dempsey-Wills attraction, and since they have made elaborate plans to hold their first match on the day I picked originally, I suppose I will have to change it."

Rickard added that he had made no decision but expected to announce a new date before the end of the present week. It is understood that Labor Day is now favored, although Rickard is noted for his distaste of holidays.

Cossackie to Have Team.

At a meeting Monday at Cossackie it was decided to reorganize a ball team to represent Cossackie this season. The following players have been engaged: Smedes, catcher; Lowther, first base; Ray Galt, second base; Glaser, third base;nelly, short stop; and Nabeleider.
